WEST SPURNS RUSSIAN PEACE FEELER

C of C to Act on By-Pass Plan Tonight

Directors To Get Program

Project Seen 3 Years Away

The U. S. Route 42 by-pass proposal will be considered by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors at a meeting today at 8 p. m. in the Chamber assembly rooms.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Chamber, said if the proposal is approved, it would become a part of the Chamber's program.

The state highway department then would be asked to make an engineering survey of the proposed by-pass and the state would determine whether the project is practical, Routzon said.

The Chamber's highway committee gave unanimous approval to the proposal last week. Routzon said the project, if approved by the state, is still two to three years away.

The project would be financed three ways: the federal government would pay one-half, the state one-fourth, and the county one-fourth, with the city possibly participating in the county share.

CALLED LESS "RADICAL"

Meanwhile, County Engineer Walter E. Rusk said he believes a U. S. Route 42 by-pass would go far in solving Mansfield's traffic problems. He said the plan is less radical than other proposed changes in the city's traffic system.

He believes that Mansfield is ready for a Route 42 by-pass, but not a by-pass for both Routes 42 and 30.

Such ideas were proposed and an engineering report prepared four years ago by the state highway department.

One of these called for the Route 42 by-pass to start just below Sandy Hill on U. S. Route 42 and go in an easterly and northerly direction across the Possum Run golf course and come out on the Ashland road at Stewart road. Stewart road is one block east of the state highway patrol post.

The other idea in the engineering report called for U. S. Route 42 to go north near Lexington, merge with Trimble road, then pass through North Lake park, along Sixth street and Orange street, joining the Ashland road. Route 30 would be extended to meet the new highway east of the city.

Thus, both major highways would go over the new superhighway, which would carry traffic through the city along Sixth and Orange streets on an elevated and limited access roadway.

SEES MERGER HARMFUL

Rusk said the effects of merging Routes 42 and 30 in the city appeared to be "harmful" to him and he hoped for an alternate solution.

Rusk said Route 42 traffic in Mansfield results on an average of five cars out of every thousand stopping here, or about 40 cars per day. That means an estimated $29,000 of spending here per year.

On the other hand, about 20 out of every 1,000 cars on Route 30 stop in Mansfield, resulting in expenditures of $60,000 per year, he said.

He asserted that both figures were low rather than high estimates and actually may be much larger. He was hopeful of solving the parking problem, saying "If our efforts do nothing more than produce a large parking lot near the center of Mansfield, we will be well rewarded for the time spent on the problem."

Auto Hits Attorney

Harry T. Manner, 76-year-old Mansfield attorney, was struck by a car yesterday afternoon at the Southern hotel corner. He was not believed seriously hurt.

Atty. Manner, who lives at 174 South Main street, was treated in General hospital for a scalp laceration and bruises on the face, arms and legs. X-rays were made to determine whether he suffered any fractures.

Police said Atty. Manner was struck by a car driven by Arleigh Pryor, 53, of East First street.

Police Guide Traffic For Pyramid Club

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Don E. Owne of suburban East Cleveland has all the qualifications for a good Pyramid club host.

Pyramid clubs — the get-rich-quick scheme based on the old chain letter idea—require parking space, adequate cooking facilities and enough large rooms for the members to crowd into.

Owen has found the solution. He has opened his Owen's Plantation restaurant and its adjacent parking lot to fellow members.

Owen isn't worried about traffic tie-ups in front of the restaurant while the clubbers are inside at their nightly meeting. He has two uniformed policemen outside directing traffic.

Equipment Bids Asked By Board

Schools to Buy Desks, Lockers

The Mansfield board of education last night authorized its clerk, John Eisaman, to advertise for bids for equipment for four schools.

Bids will be accepted June 1 for 30 school lockers for Rebecca Grubaugh, Newman, Roseland, and West Fifth street schools.

The board also will advertise for 900 pupils' desks for West Fifth and Newman schools. Bids will be received for folding bleachers for the same two school buildings.

For West Fifth two six-row sections of 56-foot bleacher seats are to be installed in the gymnasium-auditorium and in Newman one nine-row section of 52-foot nine inch long folding benches is to be installed. This type bleacher folds against the wall.

WANTS CHARGE DROPPED

W. B. McLean, representing the West Fifth street school asked the board to discontinue its $10 charge to the P-TA on nights the organization holds its bingo meetings. McLean pointed out that all proceeds from the games went to the school for equipment. The board advised him it would consider a written resolution when submitted.

George Hall, 711 Highland avenue, asked the board to make an adjustment of boundary lines of his property which adjoins the site of the proposed school at Highland and Euclid avenues. Hall's property is bounded on the south and west by alleys.

The board is considering asking the city to vacate the south alley so that its school property which fronts on Euclid avenue will not be split. Hall wants the 20-foot wide alley south of his home divided in half so he can have the advantage of several trees just outside his property. The board is considering the matter.

The board will hold a special meeting Monday at noon to review drawings and specifications and authorize advertising for bids for the construction of the new Brinkerhoof school, Woodland school addition, and Hedges addition.

Sun Finally Comes Out Of Hiding

Mansfielders had an occassional glimpse of the sun today as it poked through the clouds but the mercury remained in the lower levels.

It will be colder tonight, the forecast said, with the mercury dropping below freezing.

Damage to crops should be light because most vegetables and fruits are not very far advanced, the weatherman said.

A general warm-up is promised Wednesday, but more rain is on the way. Showers are predicted for Thursday, Saturday and Sunday.

Ship Goes Aground

NEW YORK — (INS) — The coast guard reported today that the 7,000 ton cargo-tanker S. S. Vinje, has run aground off the Nova Scotian coast "and may be breaking up."

UM-M-M!—Maxine Rudd, 11, smiles happily as she takes the first forkful of watermelon flown to her from Florida. Her mother, Mrs. James H. Rudd, holds the tray because Maxine is paralyzed from the waist down. The 25-pound melon was a gift from George H. Roth, Hollywood, Fla., who heard about Maxine's illness and her request for watermelon. The little girl, who lives at North Robinson, between Crestline and Bucyrus, does not know that doctors have given up hopes for her recovery.

Priest Hits 'Silencing'

Salvation Issue Sparks Battle

BOSTON — (AP) — A Jesuit educator charged today he had been "silenced" by Roman Catholic Archbishop Richard J. Cushing of Boston because "I believe there is no salvation outside the Catholic church and Archbishop Cushing believes there is."

The Rev. Leonard Feeney, S. J., denounced as "invalid" and "brutal" the action of Archbishop Cushing in depriving him of his priestly functions for "grave" offenses against the general laws of the Catholic church.

Fr. Feeney has supported the position of three Boston college lay instructors and a Boston college high school teacher who charged Boston college authorities with "heresy." They acteaching that salvation was possible outside the Catholic church and without submission to the Pope.

The teachers announced an appeal to the Pope, but from the Vatican came word that the issue was being returned to the Boston archbishop for jurisdiction. The teachers say they are seeking a pronouncement directly from Pope Pius XII.

The archbishop revealed last night he had withdrawn all priestly and teaching functions from Fr. Feeney because Fr. Feeney for seven months had defied the orders of his "legitimate superiors."

Boy, 18, Killed Escaping Police

DAYTON — (AP) — An 18-year-old boy was shot and killed last night attempting to escape police investigating a burglary.

Patrolman M. H. Moore said he shot James Ritchie through the head as the boy dived through the glass door of the Globe Laundry. Ritchie had ignored his order to halt, Moore said.

An unidentified 15-year-old boy was captured by Robert Crossley, 23, and his father, Jess, in an alley behind the laundry.

Fate Kept From Her

Melon Brings Smile To Doomed Girl, 11

By BILL HERRING
(N-J State Editor)

North Robinson—The long knife cut into the big, round luscious watermelon.

Maxine Rudd, 11, lying flat on her back, paralyzed from the waist down, smiled gaily as she looked at the pink, juicy slice of melon being prepared for her.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Rudd, held back their tears.

So did her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stinehelfer, with whom the Rudds make their home.

For Maxine does not know that she has probably had her last holiday wish granted. She knows only that she fell off her bicycle while waving to her father last July 4. The doctors told her a vertebra had been injured.

There followed an examination at Mansfield General hospital and surgery at University hospital in Columbus, during which a kidney was removed.

Maxine returned to school in September, but in December she was stricken again and has been at classes only two days since. She does not know the doctors have given up hope.

She does know it's wonderful to have so many friends.

Over the Easter holiday she received approximately 300 greeting cards. Nearly every day brings mail and gifts of some kind — books, games, flowers, baby chicks, even a small turtle.

"But around Easter I just got hungry for watermelon," Maxine said. "And here it is!"

Earlier in the winter she had asked for cucumbers. They were easier to obtain.

"Mother got them for me. I guess it took a lot of people, though, to get this melon. I heard them broadcasting about it from Cincinnati."

The Crawford county Red Cross heard of Maxine's desire for a melon and relayed the information to other parts of the state.

George H. Roth, Hollywood, Fla., heard the Cincinnati broadcast and sent the melon to Maxine.

When notified of its shipment by plane, on Easter, Maxine became so excited her parents had to give her a sleeping tablet so she would rest before the melon arrived. Yesterday found Maxine in her best spirits in many days, Mrs. Rudd said.

"Maxine never was still a moment before her bicycle spill," Mrs. Stinehelfer recalls. She has a brother, Ronald, 13.

Swimming was the sport next to bicycling that Maxine enjoyed most.

Her father is a machinist at the Ohio Locomotive Crane company plant in nearby Bucyrus. Rudd is a Navy veteran and moved here with the Stinehelfers two years ago from Chelsea, Mich.

Maxine is losing the use of her arms, now. She can only hold a light comic book. But she gripped the fork sturdily as her mother held the plate of watermelon for her and her smile broadened to a happy grin.

Declares Russians Operate 'Atom City'

BERLIN — (AP) — The British-licensed newspaper Mittags Echo claimed today the Russians are operating a "miniature atom city" near suburban Potsdam.

The newspaper said the Russians had been conducting atomic research in a closely-guarded "little hideaway" there with a staff of German scientists since 1947.

The report said the work was solely research and not production.

Confesses Slaying 2 Suitors

'Lonely Hearts' Murders Solved

DOVER, Del. — (INS) — Delaware state police said today that Mrs. Inez Gertrude Brennan, 45-year-old mother of three sons, has confessed killing two "lonely hearts club" suitors.

Col. Herbert Barnes, chief of the state police, said that the plump, dark-haired, twice-married widow broke down early this morning after being confronted with the confessions of two of her sons.

One son, 16-year-old Robert, had earlier told police that he killed Wade N. Woolridge, 67, of Bedford, Va., "because mother told me to"

Later, Robert said, his mother told him to shoot Otto Schultz, 55, on his farm near Concord, N. H., with a shotgun Schultz had given him for a gift. When he "lost his nerve" and refused, Robert said, his mother hid the shotgun under her skirt, waylaid Schultz near his barn, and killed him herself.

Both men were lured to their deaths after correspondence with Mrs. Brennan, who described herself in "lonely hearts" publications as a widow who liked "raising chickens, flowers and gardening." Mrs. Brennan wrote to one suitor, the day before her arrest on Thursday that she believed "marriage is a sacred thing and should last forever."

BURIED IN PIGPEN

The bodies of both men were first buried in a pigpen on the Brennan farm, southeast of Dover. Later they were burned, and the remains placed in five-gallon oil cans and tossed in the city dump.

The confessions revealed that Mrs. Brennan and two of her sons went to Concord to visit Schultz the day after Christmas. Robert said:

"But when we got there, mother kept nagging me I should shoot him.

I told her I had already done the other one and I wouldn't do this one."

"Finally we drove back from a visit to Concord one day and mom was waiting for him with a shotgun under her skirt and when he came out of the garage she shot him in the head."

Robert said that Schultz' body was loaded in a truck for the journey back to the Brennan farm. Outside Concord the truck was stopped by a policeman and taken to the sheriff's office, while Mrs. Brennan paid off an attachment against Schultz.

Luckily, Robert said, none of the policemen examined the truck's grisly cargo.

CIO Suffers New Setback

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Six CIO unionists suffered another legal setback yesterday in their efforts to bar a Cleveland judge from hearing their contempt cases.

Chief Justic Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court upheld the right of Common Pleas Judge James J. Connell to hear contempt of court charges against the six. The case is a result of picketing at the strike-bound Fawick Airflex corporation.

An attempt by the CIO United Electrical Workers union to unbench Judge Connell last Wednesday also failed when Justice Weygandt made a similar ruling.

As in the previous case, yesterday's action charged Judge Connell with bias and prejudice. It was brought by six persons who identified themselves as non-strikers. They said they were not employed by Fawick.

Judge Connell cited the six for contempt, charging they picketed his home and wrote him threatening letters.

FOREST FIRES STRIKE

Blames Gambling In Hoax

(Editor's Note: Mrs. Mary Goodman, who confessed to Beverly Hills, Cal., police that she staged the "kidnaping" and "ransoming" of her five-year-old son Joey to cover up horse racing losses from her husband, declares in the following article that "gambling fever caused it all.")

By. MRS. MARY GOODMAN
(As Told to International News Service)

REIDSVILLE, N. C. — It was the horses. The gambling fever caused it all.

I used to bet as many as eight long shots a day at the 100 dollar windows at the California tracks with the money that my husband, Joe, had given me to keep.

I love my husband. He was always a good man—so very kind.

My only hope now is that he will take me back. I am praying for my husband's forgiveness so we can be reunited.

He said to me on the telephone from Beverly Hills yesterday:

"How could you do such a thing? Why didn't you let me know? I could have forgiven you."

HAD $33,000

Funny. I guess it was my husband who taught me how to bet. We had $33,000 and we put it

Seeks Curb On Visas

Mundt Aims Blow At 'Peace Parley'

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R., S. D., called on the State department today to clamp down on Americans who want to attend foreign conferences where "ridicule and invective will be heaped on the United States."

Mundt said the department should lay down a "rigid rule" that no visas will be issued for such purposes. His statement was aimed at American delegates to the so-called "world peace conference" which opens in Paris tomorrow.

"It would seem entirely out of order to give permission to U. S. citizens to go abroad so that they can lend themselves to such purposes," Mundt said.

His statement was prompted by a pamphlet, issued by the House un-American Activities committee. It described the Paris conference as part of a worldwide campaign to mobilize atomic scientists for "civil disobedience" in non-communist countries.

The pamphlet said the Paris congress is an offshoot of the recent scientific and cultural conference for world peace held in New York city. The Paris congress, the committee said, is headed by "an avowed French communist," Frederic Joliot-Curie. It pointed out that Joliot-Curie is an atomic scientist.

Mayor On Top, Gets No Cash

ZANESVILLE — (UP) — Unlike many persons, Mayor William G. Watson was not a bit happy today to find himself in No. 1 position on a Pyramid club list.

In a strong denunciation of the craze, Mayor Watson said he had learned several "operators of Pyramid clubs" had included his name on a list of the members of the various clubs. One club, he said, listed him at the top.

Asked if he had received any money as the result of his top position in one of the clubs, Mayor Watson said:

"No. Just a flood of telephone calls."

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Allen I. Pretzman, secretary of the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy district, has asked for funds to begin work on a flood control dam on Rocky Ford creek, Highland county.

Blockade Dispute Left Open

Next Move Up to Reds

LONDON —(UP)— Diplomatic sources reported today that the western big three had rebuffed Russian feelers toward ending the Berlin blockade, but had left the way open for further negotiations.

Informed quarters said a Soviet representative had been told informally that the west would agree to:

1. The simultaneous ending of the Berlin blockade and the western counter-blockade of Soviet occupation areas in Germany.

2. A meeting of the Big Four Council of Foreign Ministers on the entire German situation after the blockade is lifted.

The west was said to have made it clear to the Soviets that plans to set up a western German government would go ahead despite Russian objections.

The east-west negotiations over Berlin were reported carried on through Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations Security council.

SEEK MEETING

Malik was understood to have suggested originally that the west drop its plans for a west German government in return for the lifting of the blockade. He hinted that would clear the way for a meeting of foreign ministers on Germany, which Russia long has sought.

The Soviet suggestion, informants said, was relayed to the western Big Three foreign ministers, then meeting in Washington.

The Russian overture was discussed by Dean Acheson of the United States, Ernest Bevin of Great Britain and Robert Schuman of France, the foreign ministers who assembled in Washington for the signing of the Atlantic pact.

The ministers apparently decided they could not accept any proposal to abandon their plans for a west German state. But, informants here said, they were willing to negotiate.

Their reply was reported back to Malik as informally as he threw out the original suggestion, and now it is up to Russia to make the next move, diplomatic sources said.

For several days dispatches from Berlin have dealt with the possibility of the blockade being removed. The speculation was especially strong after the airlift carried in a record tonnage last Saturday. The feat was interpreted in western quarters as notice to the Russians that the blockade had failed.

The dispatches had dwelt on the possibility that the Russians needed only some face-saving device to be persuaded to end the blockade.

Reds Poised For Attack

NANKING — (AP) — Vast Chinese armies trained their guns across the Yangtze river today awaiting word the civil war is on again.

Tomorrow a communist ultimatum to the government to surrender expires. The shooting is expected immediately after its expiration.

North of the river 1,000,000 seasoned Red troops were ready to commence firing. South of the river, 500,000 impotently armed and trained nationalist troops crouched before the impending blow.

Despair gripped Nanking. Government officials prepared to flee. All around the city there seemed to be an air of defeat.

Clearly many believed Nanking was in its last hours as the Nationalist capital.

Bullet Wounds Claim Two Young Brothers

The victims of the double tragedy yesterday were Kenneth Kaye, 10, and Stephen, 5, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kaye.

'No Trespassing' Signs To Go Up

Farms Posted Against AAA Workers

Approximately 65 Richland county farmers who don't like the Triple-A farm program are going to post their farms against AAA committeemen.

The signs will say: "Positively No Trespassing by AAA Committeemen for Agricultural Purposes."

The placards are being distributed by the Richland county branch of the Ohio Marketing and Quota association which met last night at the city building.

Henry Fackler, of Plymouth, state chairman of the organization, said the placards are a protest against the agricultural program proposed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, under its secretary, Charles F. Brannan.

Brannan's program, Fackler said, "Will ruin the economy of our nation."

Fackler was speaking specifically of the quota, subsidies, and marketing systems set up by the Department of Agriculture.

Fackler said all the 65 farmers at last night's meeting would have the signs on their farms in the near future.

The group believes the federal government's program is taking money out of the working man's pocket to pay farmers "for something they don't do," Fackler said.

The anti-AAA farmers are going to enlist the aid of the industrial labor group to get help in repealing the AAA program, Fackler declared.

He explained the city workers should be recruited in their crusade as "they are the ones that are paying the bill."

Fackler said AAA committeemen "may continue to come on our farms for social visits, if they are careful what they talk about."

Back Eisler Conviction

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The U.S. court of appeals Monday upheld by a 2 to 1 vote the conviction of Gerhart Eisler for concealing communist ties when seeking a permit to leave the United States in 1945.

Eisler calls himself a German communist. He has been labeled the "number one communist" agent in this country.

Eisler is under a 1-to-3 year sentence for the conviction which took place in federal district here. Justice Miller said that Eisler's insistence that the evidence was insufficient to support the verdict "is so obviously without basis as to require no discussion."

COMES NOW the time for the Rotund Stuffer to light up that hunk of hemp hopefully referred to as a prognostication stogie and try blowing some rings of forecast. . . . The topic being major league baseball and the object being to out second guess the remainder of the self-styled experts.

We've been track happy for the last couple of weeks and this opening game business in the baseball leagues kinda snuck up on us . . . . So before we go back to figuring out the intricacies of the Mansfield Relays let's take a look at what the puffs see:

Even after reading the smoke rings, we cannot guarantee results . It seems last year we picked Cleveland third in the American and Boston third in the National . They both won.

American Association Opens Schedule Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (UP) — The American association opens its 48th season today.

All four western division teams will play at eastern division parks with St Paul at Columbus, Milwaukee at Toledo. Minneapolis at Louisvile and Kansas City at Indianapolis

Full Slate Set Today In Majors

By JACK HAND
(AP Sports Writer)

The major league baseball season opens with a full schedule today following surprising early victories by the Philadelphia Phillies and Washington Senators.

Thanks to Ken Heintzelman, a 33-year-old greybeard, and newcomer Clyde Vollmer, the Phils and Senators stole a lap on the field yesterday in the only two games played.

Heintzelman shut out the favored Boston Braves, 4-0, spoiling the 1948 National league champions' pennant-raising ceremonies. Vollmer came through with a ninth-inning single that beat the Philadelphia Athleics, 3-2.

Both games on the first of the double opening programs were played under poor weather conditions. As a result the crowds suffered, only 9,195 paid to watch Billy Southworth's Braves hoist their '48 flag. Some 26,000 joined President Truman at Griffith stadium.

WEATHER THREATENS

Chill, damp weather threatens to slice today's crowds. Cincinnati, sold out since Christmas as usual for its date with St. Louis Cardinals, won't be hurt. But the others may.

Brooklyn hopes to crack its home opening record of 31,648 with the New York Giants as an attraction. The weather man is not optimistic.

Chicago may turn out 30,000 to see if Rip Sewell, winner of nine opening games, can pitch Pittsburgh to a victory over the Cubs. Sewell, better than ever at 40, is opposed by another "Kid," 39-year-old Dutch Leonard.

Detroit expects to draw 50,000 to see Hal Newhouser try to tame the feeble Chicago White Sox. The New York Yankees expect about 40,000 for their Yankee stadium opener against Washington.

The world champion Cleveland Indians are due to play in the comparative solitude of Sportsman's park against the St. Louis Browns with 15,000 or less in the stands. Connie Mack hopes for 25,000 at Shibe park for the A's first home start against the powerful Boston Red Sox.

It's a sad opening day for Joe DiMaggio, Whitey Kurowski and Ewell Blackwell, the three "Big Ifs" of the spring training season.

JOE ON BENCH

DiMaggio, missing his eighth of 11 openers, will be on the bench in street clothes while the Yanks tangle with the Senators—league-leading Senators, if you please.

Kurowski stays home in St. Louis for an examination by Dr. Robert Hyland while the Cards face Cincinnati. Blackwell, who hasn't pitched an inning after a kidney operation, won't see action for some time

The Athletics' Dick Fowler apparently had victory No. 1 all sewed up with a 2-1 lead going to the last of the ninth at Washington. Successive pinch doubles by Sherry Robertson and Ed Stewart tied the score. After Fowler loaded the bases, Vollmer came through with his game-winning single to left.

The hit by Vollmer made President Truman look good as a baseball expert for he had predicted a Washington win by a 5-4 score. The score was off but he had the winner. Last year he was right on the Yankees to beat the Senators.

Heintzelman did a remarkable job on the Braves, mowing down the Champs with five hits Johnny Sain was wild in the first walking two men with the bases loaded to give Eddie Sawyer's alert Phils all the runs they needed.

Senior High Baseballers Open on Barberton Field

The much-postponed opening of the Senior High school baseball season will come at last tomorrow—weather permitting.

The Tygers are scheduled to travel to Barberton to meet an old diamond rival in a 4 p. m. game. They were to have opened against Madison last Thursday, but that game was postponed by wet grounds, and then the same contest, rescheduled for Saturday, was snowed out.

Barring more bad weather, the Tygers are to play their home-opener Friday afternoon against Marion, another school which usually comes up with a better than average nine.

LOU WILL START

Lou Gregorio, the little fastballer who pitched himself to prominence with two consecutive no-hit games last spring, will be tomorrow's Tyger starter. Should he tire in the late innings, he will be replaced by Shortstop Sparkie Watts, with left-Fielder Charlie Marchant coming into the infield.

The Mansfield lineup as announced by Coach Mike Byelene will be: Marchant, left field; Cy Elsass, right field; Watts; Joe Miller, catcher; Ken McCally, first base; Mike Gruber, third base; Walt McKeever, second base; and Corky Perrine, center field. All but McCally, McKeever and Elsass were regulars last year.

The Tygers have only a little less than three weeks to sharpen their batting eyes before the district tournament which opens here May 6.

Title Grapple Match Listed Here Saturday

Mansfield will be the sits of a championship wrestling match Saturday night at the Ashland road armory.

Martino Angelo, junior heavyweight champion, has been signed to meet Stacy Hall, the Columbus city detective, in a title go. Angelo is a product of Hamilton, Ontario but is now wrestling out of Toledo.

A veteran of the grunt and groan trade, Angelo won the championship only two weeks ago when he upset Johnny Demchuk in Toledo. Demchuk had held the title for three years.

Hall got his Mansfield title shot by defeating Rough Whitey Whittler in a grudge match here last Saturday. Whittler won four straight bouts in the Mansfield ring before bowing to Hall.

Two other bouts will be lined up by Promoter Clete Kauffman. The former wrestler has staged six shows in Mansfield with more than average success.

Tickets for the championship are now on sale at City News

Madison Postpones Date With Ashland

The Madison high-Ashland baseball game set for 4 p m. today at Blue Goose park has been postponed.

Meanwhile, Madison coach Blaine Dowler is hoping for a break in the weather before the Rams scheduled game at Galion Friday afternoon.

Springfielders Seek Second Relays Crown

By FRITZ HOWELL

MANSFIELD — (AP) — Springfield's Wildcats go after their second straight Mansfield relays crown this week end.

The Clark county crew, won their own relays meet last Saturday through wind, snow and rain, in the opening track-field meet of the spring.

The Wildcats won only two of the 18 events last year in piling up 31.7 points to defeat Dayton Dunbar and Columbus Central which tied at 23. About 60 schools and 100 athletes took part in the 1948 event, but the 18th relays are expected to eclipse that figure and approach the record of 115 schools and 1500 contestants.

No out-of-state school has ever won, although Huntington, W. Va., finished a strong third in 1938 and 1939, and strong Vincent of Erie and Mt. Lebanon, Pa., have finished fourth.

Harry Mehock, the "fellow in the corduroy coat," founded the Mansfield relays in 1927 and has guided them since.

Friday's lone event in the competition is the four-mile high school relay, with a party for the press and officials in the evening. Preliminaries in all events will be held Saturday morning, with the finals in the afternoon. About 5000 spectators are expected.

Entries close Thursday, and practically all the hot-shot schools are slated to be represented in "America's larges independent scholastic track and field classic."

Entry blanks from eight additional schools were received by Mehock this morning.

The schools and number of contestants follow: Cleveland East, 14; Columbiana, 19; Cleveland West Tech, 25; Richwood, 14; Dayton Dunbar, 19; Marysville, 8; Ashtabula, 6 and Conneaut, 7.

Madison Rams Meet Tonight

The Madison township junior baseball team will meet tonight at 7:30 at Madison high school to organize for the 1949 Richland county Hot Stove league season.

The Rams won the county championship in 1948, piling up an over-all record of 21 victories and only four defeats. Manager Harold C. Snyder has asked all Madison township boys, 18 years of age and under, to attend the meeting.

Snyder has lost last years battery of Dick Poth and Wayne Strang but figures they will be replaced by Dutch Bader and Gene Riblet of the present Madison high school baseball team.

The Rams will be backed by the Madison Hot Stove league chapter. Ed Thomas is president of the group. E. V. Walker, vice-president; Paul White, secretary and William Kopcial, treasurer.

Scribe Hints That Bob Feller's Fans May Be In For Surprise This Season

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK — (UP) — There is small solace for the Bob Feller fan today in the off-again on-again manner in which the Iowa farm boy has been pitching this spring, but there's a hint during the on-again periods that bullet Bob's critics are in for a surprise this year.

They have been saying for several years now that Feller is finished. The theory is that the dazzling speed is gone from his fast one. And those who say he is "through" point to the fact that he "only" won 19 games last season.

Most pitchers should live so long. But admittedly it is not become a Feller trademark. Nothing like those 27 victories of 1940 or those 26 triumphs in 1946.

It was a bad season for the kid whose rugged right arm changed him from a cornfield nonentity to a sports world idol. And the manner in which that 1948 season closed made even more of an impression. It stung his pride and made Feller promise himself better things.

He failed to clinch the pennant for the Cleveland Indians. Then he lost two games in his first long-awaited world series. That opening setback was a heart breaker. Bob gave the Boston Braves only two hits, but the second blow chased in the game's only run and beat him. In his second start he was murdered.

Feller didn't gain his stride until deep summer last season. There were reports that he was neglecting his baseball for outside interests. This he denied. But Manager Lou Boudreau asserted this winter that bullet Bob "might" have paid too much attention to his commercial ventures.

Not that he still didn't work hard at baseball. He just worked too hard overall and his pitching suffered.

So it might be slightly significant that Feller hasn't worked too hard this spring. Always one to take exceptionally fine care of himself, Bob has been bringing himself along his own way.

It has been a slow process, and one which apparently didn't always please the fancy of Boudreau.

Feller, a well-kept 30, shouldn't be through by any means. There's a hunch in this corner that he'll prove it this season—and maybe in the World Series if the rest of the Cleveland Pitchers can keep up with the "old man" from Van Meter, Ia.

Mansfield Tire Pin Team Takes Loop Championship

Mansfield Tire clinched the 1948-49 championship of the Commercial C bowling league last night although it won only one of three games from Urschel Insurance. Second place Local 17 also won only one game, leaving Tire four games ahead with only three to go. The league concludes next week.

In the individual department, Paul Jewell of Wolford's Funeral home was in command with a 634 score on games of 204-214-216. His was the only honor roll score of the loop, the runners-up being Frank Kearns, Frisch Grocery, and Al Baki, Barnes Market, tied with 591.

Dean Hahn, Long Bar, had 571 followed by: Mac Southward, Mansfield Tire, 549; Ken Carlisle, Long Bar, 543; Ted LeMunyon, Barnes Market, 548; Bob Somers, Orphans, 545; Elmer Myers, Pioneer Printing, 534; and Emmett McIntire, Urschel's, 531.

Mitsch's Corner Store all but wrapped up the Women's Variety league title as it swept three games from South Boulevard Market while second-place National Cash Register dropped a trio to Farmers Market. Mitsch's now has a four game lead with two bowling nights—six games—to go.

Arlene Peters of Wilson Auto Sales posted the top mark in the league, 167-180-187 — 534. Dot McDevitt, Farmers Market, recorded 519 to be the only serious threat to the leader. Sis DeWeese, Larimore Realty, had 498; Irene Walters, Stone's Grill, 497; Martha Dye, Mitsch's Corner Store, 494; and Garnet Karl, Farmers Market, 493.

Christine Au led the Mansfield Tire Women's league with a 481 score. Betty Pearl followed with 455, Maryalice Danals had 426 and Yvonne Alt had 407. Gwen Duffy turned in 391 and Elaine Miller 389.

Gene Rudolph entered the honor roll from the ranks of the Richland A league with a 612 score on games of 197-222-193. Richland bowling manager Dale Cleckner did not miss by far as he got 194-194-205-591. Both of the leaders rolled for Kozak's Distributing as did Win Cleckner, who posted 577. Kozak's swept three games from Ideal Tavern to move within one game of the league-leading Oak Park Tavern.

Tony Santoro led Sons of Italy to a two-out-of-three win over Oak Park with a 555 series. Coonie Miagliotta chimed in with 513. Abie Keefer, Oak Park had 545; Bob Gresmer, Richland recreation, 540; A. Malthaner, Morgan's, 537; Orlie Grable, Richland, 528; and John Heckert, McCarrick's Gulf, 522.

Farrell Hipp of Saltzgaber Drilling set the pins flying at top speed in the Richland C Handicap loop with a 168-219-169-556 series. John Rhoads, Charm Fashion, was close behind with 555 and Gene Rudolph, the "A" league leader got back in the spotlight with a 524 for the same team.

R. Forsythe had 488 and B. Distl 482 for Schenk's which dropped two of three games to league-leading Charm Fashion.

Comments of Major Loop Pilots

NEW YORK — (AP) — Managers of the 16 major league teams agreed today with the consensus that the American league shapes up as a two-team race between Boston and Cleveland while the National is a wide open battle.

Comments range from Brooklyn's Burt Shotton who says flatly, "I am picking the Dodgers to win the pennant," to Cincinnati's Bucky Walters who says, "some forecasters who put us on the bottom may find they are wrong."

The comment from individual managers.

EDDIE DYER St Louis Cardinals—"We're stronger in reserves both infield and outfield and I believe our catching is improved I'd say our pennant chances are as good as they were a year ago at this time."

BURT SHOTTON Brooklyn Dodgers—"I am picking the Dodgers to win the pennant I think we have not only the best team in the National league but the best-conditioned team."

LEO DUROCHER New York Giants—"We're liable to fool a lot of experts We may not be as weak in pitching as some people think I think Brooklyn is the team to beat."

Bob Feller Pitches In Seventh Opening Game

Rapid Robert Lists Four First Tilt Wins

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—Bob Feller, who has pitched six opening games for the Cleveland Indians, was to do honors again today in St. Louis—and the cynics were ready to throw their knives.

The former Iowa farmboy, object of much criticism for the past year, has not been too impressive in spring training. Feller, however, states that he doesn't care "about winning or losing until the season starts."

Whatever the case may be, Manager Lou Boudreau stands firm in his choice of the fireballer to take the hill against the Browns today, and for a good reason. As Boudreau might say: "Look at the records."

Of the six openers he has pitched, Feller has won four of them, three by shutouts. In the other victory, he gave up one run. One of the fireballer's triumphs was a no-hitter against Chicago in 1940, while he gave up one, two and three hits in the other trio of opening day wins.

Feller's two losses were both to Chicago, one in 1941 and the other in 1947. He gave up five hits and three runs in the first game and two runs on nine hits in the latter. He lost no prestige in either instance.

Last year against the Browns he was master all the way as he gave up two hits and won the contest, 4-0, at the Cleveland stadium. Feller's opponent today was to be Ned Garver, a right hander. Considerable cloudiness and occasional rain was the forecast for today.

TAKE THINGS EASY

The defending champion Indians took life easy yesterday as they awaited the opener. Manager Boudreau, however, took the time to sum up the Tribe's chances of repeating as champs in 1949.

"We've got to get that pitching," the manager - shortstop said. "If we don't, we're dead."

Of course, Boudreau probably was referring mainly to three hurlers — Feller, Gene Bearden and Bob Lemon—when he made the comment about "that pitching."

It was this threesome which won 59 of the Tribe's 96 games last season.

Lemon, who has been off and on in spring pitching roles, is scheduled to chuck against the Brownies Wednesday and Early Wynn, who was acquired from Washington during the off-season, probably will hurl the third game in St. Louis.

Bearden, who with Lemon won 20 games last season, is the likely choice for the home opener in Cleveland Friday against the Detroit Tigers.

7 Mansfield Fighters Will Box In Marion

Seven members of the Friendly House amateur boxing stable will compete in a benefit ring show tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Marion armory.

Proceeds of the program will go to Joe Neidig, Marion Golden Glover, who suffered a broken arm in the 1949 Mansfield Friendly House boxing tournament.

The Mansfield fighters are: Ralph Grier and Link Briggs, welterweights; Wilber McFadden and Cecil Wright, batamweights; Tom Weaver, heavyweight; Howard Carney, featherweight and Bill Eberhardt, lightweight.

Handling the Mansfield fighters tomorrow will be Joe Zimmerman, Connie Miller, Bob Whisler and Mike Wentz.

Wentz, the Friendly House athletic director, announced today that the next F-H amateur bouts have been moved back until May 9. They were originally scheduled for May 2 at the Colby and Earick showrooms.

Competitors for the nine bouts will be drawn from Mansfield, Akron, Cleveland, Ashland, Galion and Marion. Wentz hopes to sign Silent Ogletree, the Cleveland mute, against a suitable opponent.

BUCK ACE — Star of the Ohio State baseball team, Pete Perini, right-handed pitcher, is expected to sign with a big league team when he completes his school work. Perini has been pitching batting practice for the Boston Braves during the last few summers.

LaMotta KO's O'Neill Bell

DETROIT — (INS) — Jake La Motta, Bronx, N. Y., middleweight, today held another knockout victory over O'Neill Bell after dropping the Detroiter four times in Olympia stadium last night.

Bell's poor showing put him in the doghouse with the Michigan boxing commission, and he faces possible suspension for the performance.

Last night both fighters were under edict to "produce or else." They had been warned by David Gudelsky, Muskegon, Mich., member of the boxing commission that if there was any question about their efforts, either one or both would be suspended, and their pay withheld.

Urges Atom Labor Panel

WASHINGTON — (INS) — A special presidential commision has recommended the establishment of an atomic energy labor relations panel as a safeguard against strikes or lockouts in vital installations.

President Truman made the commission's report public and declared that unions and management must settle labor disputes at atomic energy plants "through conscientious bargaining and use of existing conciliation services."

The chief executive promised "careful consideration" of the commission's recommendations. He pointed out that no "special legislation" will be required to carry out the steps suggested in the report.

The report emphasized that the nation's atomic energy production "includes some vital operations which must not be interrupted by strikes or lockouts, and the president's commission stresses the very special responsibility of the private contractors and of the labor unions 'to seek in every way by voluntary procedures and mutual agreement peaceful and orderly settlement of disputes affecting such vital operations'."

Two Home Offers Tendered Boy, 10

LATROBE, Pa.—(AP)— A wistful little boy who hoped his missing mother would come home for Easter has two offers for adoption.

Ten-year-old Andy Tompos, jr., wrote a letter to a newspaper last week asking that his mother who vanished five years ago come home. The newspaper published the letter on its front page.

Haywood Bundy and his wife, Norfolk, Va., offered to adopt Andy yesterday. The letter also found its appeal with Mr. and Thurston Saul of Bethesda, Md., a Washington suburb.

The boy, whose father disappeared before he was born, lives with his ailing grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Oblywaniuk.

FLOATING—Shortstop Jerry Coleman of New York Yankees appears to be floating over head of Brooklyn Shortstop Pee Wee Reese (1) in attempting to complete a double play in eighth inning of exhibition game at New York. Reese is being called out at second base by Umpire Bill Grieve, while Coleman's throw, attempting to double up Brooklyn Outfielder Duke Snider, goes wild past first base. Dodger Outfielder Cal Abrams scored the winning run from third base on the error. Brooklyn won 7-6.

Redlegs Look For Big Crowd Not Much Else

By HAROLD HARRISON

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Cincinnati's Reds and St. Louis' Cardinals — two ball clubs with plenty of woes and worries — will open the 1949 National league baseball campaign here today before 34,000 fans.

Those 34,000 customers will fill Crosley field to capacity. That isn't unusual, of course, because a full house for the opening ball game in Cincinnati can be counted almost as much of a certainty as death and taxes.

The weather outlook was none too good.

KEN TO PITCH

Buckey Walters, starting his first full season as manager at Cincinnati, named Ken Raffensberger to do the pitching for the Reds. There was a bit of necessity and some hunchplaying in the selection of Raffensberger. The necessity game from the fact he's the only hurler the redleg staff to go a full nine innings this spring and from the fact Johnny Vander meer's pitching activities have been curtailed for the past 10 days because of a thigh injury.

The hunch that "Raffy might get the Reds away on the right foot was due to the fact he hurled two one-hitters against the Cards last year.

Either Harry Brecheen or George Munger were slated to be Manager Eddie Dyer's choice for pitching duty.

Preakness Entry List Goes Up 5

BALTIMORE — (UP) — Palestinian, Old Rockport, Rookwood, Colonel Mike and Blue Lancer were accepted by the Maryland Jockey club today as supplemental" nominations for the $75,000 added Preakness.

The new entries brought to 80 the number of three-year-olds nominated for the May 14 Pimlico event, second of the "triple crown" classics, and helped raise the gross purse to $101,870.

Baseball Lights Are Just Too Hot

EDINBURG, Tex. — (UP) — A jury today began hearing testimony in a trial to determine whether baseball is a "nuisance."

Four home owners who live near the new park constructed by McAllen of the lower Rio Grance valley league are seeking an injunction, preventing use of the park. The home owners claim that the spectators will make too much noise and the lights for night game will make the neighborhood too hot in the summer.

Locke's On Game Again After Win

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. — (AP) — Bobby Locke, the 31-year-old golf star from Johannesburg, South Africa, is back on his game, he said today after winning his first tournament since returning to the United States several weeks ago.

Locke cruised around the par 69, 6,065-yard Cavalier Country club layout in 68 strokes yesterday to beat amateur Frank Stranahan, of Toledo, Ohio, in an 18-hold playoff for the $10,000 Cavalier specialists tournament title. Stranahan carded a 70.

Gardella Signs With Quebec Nine

Big Cattle Barn May Be ABC Site

INDIANAPOLIS — (UP) — The 1950 American bowling congress tournament may be held in a cattle barn.

Carl Tyner, secretary-manager of the Indiana state fair board, said the ABC's 1950 championship classic couldn't be held in the coliseum on the state fair grounds because the coliseum space already has been rented. He suggested the big cattle barn adjacent to the coliseum.

Daily Double Back In Court

NEW YORK — (AP) — The daily double, back on New York tracks after being out of use three years, faced a court test today.

A Brooklyn attorney, contending the double is illegal and results in juvenile delinquency, obtained a court order requiring racing officials to show a cause in state supreme court Friday why it shouldn't be abolished.

The Attorney, Joseph Goldstein, said the daily double violates that section of the constitution which prohibits bookmaking and gambling.

Government Quintuples Funds In Support Program In Year

Tax Money Holds Farm Prices High

$200,000,000 Lost In 9 Months

By VINCENT J. BURKE

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The government has five times as much money tied up in supporting farm prices today as it had at this time a year ago.

The total investment and commitment, including loans, purchase agreements and actual government-owned stocks of commodities, amount to $2,480,000,000. That compares with about $500,000,000 a year ago.

The multi-billion-dollar operation is having a widespread effect on the economy:

CONSUMERS — Price support programs now are holding up prices of eggs, potatoes, butter and indirectly propping prices of cheese, evaporated milk and other manufactured milk products. It is impossible to say how far prices might drop without these supports.

Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan predicts the government within the next 60 days will have to start propping the price of pork chops and bacon.

TAXPAYERS—program losses during the past nine months amount to more than $200,000,000, mostly in potatoes. In addition, the government is risking further loss on the $2,480,000,000 it has invested or committed to invest in commodities. No one can say how much of the commodities under loan and purchase agreement the government will take title to. Nor can the eventual loss be estimated.

Ninety-six per cent of the entire operation now involves grains and cotton and other commodities which could be stored for years.

FARMERS — Without price supports, farm prices would have plunged more than 15 per cent during the past year. Even though supports will be set at nearly the same level on basic crops this year as they were last year, the agriculture department figures net farm income probably will drop this year more than 10 per cent below last year.

NATIONAL ECONOMY — Without any price supports, government officials say the nation might be sliding toward a depression right now.

TRUCK CRUSHES WOMAN

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Mrs. Ruth Young, 48, was crushed to death by a rear wheel of her husband's coal truck yesterday.

City Manager Expert to Talk At Meeting In City Tonight

A public meeting designed to better inform Mansfielders of the city manager type of municipal government and to form a permanent organization to promote the plan here, will be held at 7:30 p. m. today at John Simpson Junior High school.

Guest speaker will be Walter J. Millard of Cincinnati, nationally-known municipal consultant and authority on the council-manager plan.

"Purpose of the meeting is to inform the people of Mansfield on the council-manager plan," J. C. Gorman and James L. Young, temporary co-chairmen of the movement here, said.

"Therefore, it is just as important that persons having some questions or reservations on this issue be present as well as those who are already in favor of it," they added.

At the conclusion of Millard's address, he will conduct a forum discussion with the audience.

Sponsors of a manager-council government here plan to hold an election of officers as the backbone of a permanent organization with a goal of bringing the issue before Mansfield voters.

They plan to form an active committee of 100 persons or more to provide working support for the officers.

Vagrant Confesses Cleveland Slaying

PITTSBURGH — (NEA) — William H. Gresham, arrested 10 days ago for vagrancy, has confessed to a cafe killing in Cleveland April 5, Allegheny county detectives reported today.

Asst. Det. Chief Russell Patton said Gresham was identified as a suspect wanted in the slaying at the Reo bar in Cleveland through a fingerprint check.

Predicts Temperatures Year Ahead

By FRANK CAREY
(AP Science Reporter)

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Weather predictions for 12 months in advance are possible for any city, Dr. Charles G. Abbot, famed sun expert of the Smithsonian institution, reported today. He bases the system on periodic fluctuations in the heat radiation of the sun.

Abbot disclosed a near-perfect record for predicting cool and warm days — by actual dates—in the nation's capital during 1948, and said the method could be applied to any other local area in the world.

He's already got his dates lined up for 1949 and predicts, among other things, a relatively cool fourth of July in Washington and a relatively warm Christmas — for your information in case you're planning a visit here.

Abbot's present report concerns temperature variations only. But he also has worked out a similar solar method of forecasting the likelihood of rain or fair weather on specific dates a year ahead of time.

(Asked months in advance by the Associated Press to give a forecast on the Roosevelt and Truman inaugural days in 1944 and 1948 respectively, Abbot predicted fair weather — and scored perfectly in both cases.)

Here's what Abbot did in 1948 about Washington temperatures:

In January of that year, he selected 55 specific dates—four or five for each month — when he said the temperature would drop to a minimum and then start rising again. Between the "cold days," he predicted, there would be warmer days averaging 7.1 degrees higher, followed by a drop to another minimum.

Then he locked his predictions in a safe.

Early this year the safe was opened by the director of the Smithsonian's astrophysical observatory and the predictions were checked with the actual weather record of the U. S. weather bureau.

Out of the 55 "minima" predicted, said Abbot, 48 dates had lower temperatures than others intervening between them. The average excess of the warmer days was 6.96 dgrees, against 7.1 degrees predicted.

Fixed Cold War Budget Should Be Set

Recently at a meeting in the Pentagon, Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, the President's principal economic adviser, made a speech off the record. It was released for publication about ten days ago. Nourse had said that it would be unwise on economic grounds to treat the North Atlantic pact as a reason for adding to the total of our expenditures for military security. And then he added that unless the pact has "increased our national danger," it ought not to be necessary to vote "additional outlays" over and above the 15 billions for military defense.

At the White House press conference, which took place the day Nourse's remarks were published, the President said that Nourse was entitled to speak as an economist, but not as a maker of policy. The policy of the administration was to ask congress to vote additional funds — presumably upward of another billion dollars — to arm our allies in the Atlantic pact.

Four days later ex-President Herbert Hoover came along with the Eberstodt report which says that the military budget is padded, that there is in it a "staggering waste" which may be as high as 1½ billions (just about the amount necessary to begin rearming Western Europe), and that "Congress allocates billions without accurate knowledge as to why they are necessary and what they are being used for."

Two days after that the house of representatives passed a military appropriations bill, which only a handful of the members can even pretend to understand at all. The bearings were perfunctory, and the debate was negligible. This bill asks the Administration to spend more money than it asked for.

THUS, THE PRESIDENT, by saying that he wants additional funds to arm Europe, and the house, by voting additional funds to arm the United States, have combined to give the people and the world the impression that the military outlook has not been improved by the pact, and that it may be worse.

That cannot be what Mr. Truman and Secretary Acheson think. But that is what the American people and the rest of the world will think if the ratification of the pact is followed by demands for an increase, and not for a stabilization, of the total expenditures of the United States for foreign aid and military purposes.

It will be very hard indeed to convince a great many people in congress and out of it that Nourse is not right — right not only as an economist but right also on the meaning of the pact. For when the American guaranty against aggression has been ratified by the senate, the only convincing way to prove that it promotes security and that it is in truth defensive, is to put a ceiling on our total expenditures — to appropriate no more for the cold war after the pact than we were spending before there was a pact.

The pact should be the occasion for rearranging our expenditures within a fixed total. To be sure, in the vast amounts we are spending another billion more or less will have no noticeable effect on the American economy. But as a matter of principle it makes a very great difference whether the budget of the cold war is larger, is smaller, or is stabilized, after the pact is ratified.

If it is larger, nothing that Acheson can say by way of explanation will dispel the impression that the pact has inaugurated a more feverish race of armaments because it has not redressed the balance of power between the Soviet union and the Atlantic community. But in fact the formal commitment by the United States to treat aggression as war against the United States has redressed the balance of power. Another billion or so will not redress it more surely. It will only indicate that we lack confidence in the effectiveness of the pact.

Congress need have no fear that it is being isolationist or that it is defaulting on American security if it tells the Administration to finance the arming of Western Europe out of the American military budget and the E. C. A. funds. No one can possibly prove, or believe seriously, that out of this total of about 20 billions, the Administration cannot find one billion for arms to Europe just by allocating the money more efficiently.

NOW, NO RESPONSIBLE and informed man thinks we are on the verge of a shooting war. Certainly Mr. Truman does not believe it, or he would not be asking for a paltry 15 billions. He would be asking for the 90 billions that we spend in 1944.

The only reason he is asking for the additional funds is that it is too much trouble to straighten out the confusion in the Pentagon, and to deal firmly with the tendency of E. C. A. to oversell itself. So Congress should help him to help himself by fixing a grand total for the cold war, preferable a little lower than the current expenditures, in any event no higher.

LIBRARY GROWS FAST

ITHACA, N. Y. — (UP) — Cornell University's library now has 1,350,000 volumes, including 50,000 acquired during the last year, reports Dr. Stephen A. McCarthy, librarian.

Ends Life In Blazing Auto

DENVER — (AP) — Laughing at pleas that he save his life, Roy V. Platz, 57, drove his blazing car through downtown Denver Sunday until he was burned fatally.

Patrolman Dan Levering said Platz, an engineer at Fort Logan veterans hospital, pulled up in front of the apartment house where he lived, the car ablaze.

A woman screamed at him to get out, but he drove away. Three men jumped on the running board and tried unsuccessfully to stop the car.

Platz lost consciousness as he returned to the apartment house and stopped the car. Bystanders pulled him from the flaming coupe. He was taken to Denver General hospital where he died nearly four hours later.

CROSSED LEGS RESENTED

MELBOURNE, AUSTRAILIA (UP) — A demand that women be prohibited from crossing their legs on streetcars was made to the tramways board. An irate passenger asked for a law when the crossed toe of her seatmate snagged her new nylons.

Mrs. Culp Makes 11 Trips to Hospital

Collects 1,000 'Get Well' Cards

By MATT HALL
Public Relations Director for Blue Cross Plan.

The verses of a thousand "get well" cards tell the story of Mrs. Edith Culp, 241 Rhein avenue, and her unusual fight for life.

The cards are in 11 bundles, 11 chapters, each virtually the same. They tell of her 11 trips to the hospital.

Mrs. Culp's story is personal but timely. It drives home the meaning of Mansfield's current Blue Cross-Blue Shield community enrollment, scheduled to end Wednesday.

As the 54-year-old Mansfield housewife puts it — "without Blue Cross there probably would be no story."

Mrs. Culp's husband, Floyd, a 15-year employe in the curing room of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, enrolled himself and Mrs. Culp in Blue Cross March 1, 1946. In the three years since then, Mrs. Culp has suffered many severe asthmatic attacks.

Eleven times she was rushed to the hospital. She stayed a total of 174 days. Eleven times Blue Cross paid most of the bill — a total of $1,320.13.

The story of Mrs. Culp's collection of "get well" cards is repeated — with variations — many times over among Mansfield's Blue Cross-Blue Shield subscribers.

Ralph Hedrick, 411 Tremont street is a Blue Cross-Blue Shield booster, even though Blue Cross didn't pay all his bill when he left General hospital Jan. 9. His total bill was $168 29. Blue Cross paid $167.63. Hedrick had to pay 66 cents — a sales tax charge, from which Blue Cross is exempt because it's a non-profit organization

4 HOSPITAL TRIPS

John Owens, 447 Grace street, enrolled his family July 15, 1948 in the group plan at the Ohio State reformatory, where he works. Owens acted in the nick of time. Since then, Blue Cross has paid $313.60 in four hospital bills — two for his wife, Oleda, one for himself, and one for his daughter, Brenda.

Alex Rehm, 301 Bulkley avenue, and Mrs. Prell Szirakı, 710 Virginia avenue, possessed equal foresight. Since Rehm enrolled Nov. 1, 1945, he has been hospitalized once, his wife, Louise, twice. Blue Cross has paid $375.55. And Mrs. Szirakı has been hospitalized twice since joining July 1, 1945. Blue Cross has paid $389.50.

Wayne Copeland, superintendent of Mansfield General hospital, pointed out that three years ago the Blue Cross Hospitalization plan and Blue Shield Surgical care were available only to employes of large groups.

"In the enrollment now under way, any individual or family in Richland county may secure this protection against unforeseen hospital and surgical bills," Copeland said.

Application booths are stationed in the M O'Neil store and the Farmers Bank lobby There is no age limit. No physical examination is necessary. The retired, the self-employed, the unemployed, and those working for companies with fewer than 10 employes — who were not admitted before — may now join in this special community group. When the enrollment closes Wednesday evening, it can not be reopened for at least another year.

Copeland pointed out that 50 per cent of Richland's population already is enrolled. In 1948 alone, Blue Cross paid out $265,000 to cover Mansfield residents' hospital bills and $325,000 for all Richland subscribers.

'GET-WELL SCRAPBOOK'—Mrs. Edith Culp, 241 Rhein avenue, adds some cards to her scrapbook of 1,000 "get-well" cards she has received during 11 trips to the hospital. Butchie, her 10-year-old cat, looks on approvingly. Butchie weighs 15 pounds.

Seek 2 Gunmen After Holdup

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Ohio police today engaged in a manhunt for at least two efficient, fast stickup men who held up the Commonwealth Loan company in Columbus.

Two men walked into the second story office yesterday afternoon and drew guns as they stepped up to a booth. One guarded the door while the other asked quietly where the safe and other sources of money were located.

Miss Natalie Jackson, a clerk, was forced to stand against a wall with three other employes while the men ransacked the place.

Twice during the methodic rifling of cash drawers the telephone rang and one of the men stood by with a gun trained on Manager Wayne K. Horne as he answered it.

No Cost Is Too High To Prevent War

AT A TIME when many people talk almost glibly of the possibility of a third world war, it is wise to attempt to assess the cost of the last conflict. Nothing resembling an exact accounting can be made—there are too many imponderables and intangibles, which permit only an informed guess. One of the most thoughtful efforts to arrive at the cost of World War II appears in Harper's Magazine for April. It is written by C. Hartley Grattan, who has long been a student of the economic implications of war.

Mr. Grattan concludes that about 10,000,000 members of armed forces lost their lives. The last war was unique in that civilians suffered a heavier mortality than did men in uniform.

The casualties from bombing; the planned extermination of whole categories of civilians; the terrible death rate among slave laborers; the losses in underground movements—these and other causes probably were responsible for 30,000,000 deaths. Thus, the total human cost of the war was 40,000,000.

To total the material cost brings the analyst to extremely difficult ground. The most obvious and easily-unearthed cost is the money actually spent for military purposes by victor and vanquished. This is recorded in national budgets. It came to more than a trillion dollars—$1,117,000,000,000. Next we must arrive at the cost of the physical damage which was done during the long course of the conflict. Factories, power plants, transportation systems and whole industrial regions were razed on a wholesale scale. Both sides concentrated on attacking dwelling areas—people who have no place to live especially in severe weather, are of small value as workers. Mr. Grattan arrives at the figure of $2,234,000,000,000 (over two trillion) to cover the cost of direct destruction.

But this is not all. There is another economic cost, which is really the most difficult to estimate. That cost is found in the depletion of natural resources, the disorganization of economic systems, the value of labor and material seized and carted off by invaders, and so on. Mr. Grattan places this cost at $650,000,000,000. Adding up all the costs, there is the incredible figure of four trillion dollars—$4,000,000,000,000! And this, as he says, leaves out the moral cost of war, which is beyond calculation.

World War II was seven times as destructive as World War I. If World War III should come, with the atom bomb, there is every reason to believe that the costs would be beyond calculation and civilization practically wiped out.

This is why the best minds in the world are now devoted to the task of maintaining peace.

Those 'Accident Prone' Drivers

NEW YORK STATE has a new law requiring a new examination, by the bureau of motor vehicles, for every driver who becomes involved in three accidents within a period of eighteen months. The aim of the law is to remove from the highways "accident prone" drivers, who are said by some statisticians to be responsible for as many as 40 per cent of all accidents.

Over a period of years this plan, if effectively used, should bring about a reduction of accidents in the state. Officials estimated that of more than five million licensed drivers in New York, 7,000 or 7,500 will be called in for examination under the new law in the first eighteen-month period. Presumably some of these at least will lose their licenses; others may be sufficiently impressed to correct their driving habits.

Good as it seems to be, the plan resembles locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen. Much greater effect would be gained by providing, in addition, for examination of all licensed drivers at intervals of two or three years. In that way many "accident prone" drivers might be detected and removed from the highways before causing three accidents.

Time For 'Mess of Dandelions'

HOWEVER much the lowly dandelion may be maligned later in the season as an annoying weed, just now it is a health-giving offering of Nature, when used in the form of "greens."

The high premium many people are willing to pay at this time of year for fresh green food shipped from distant places reveals the human craving for a change from winter diet.

Young, tender dandelions can now be found in many backyards, or on a short trip into the country, and it takes no more than a basket and a knife to gather enough of this edible weed to provide a family meal.

Preparation includes cleansing thoroughly, boiling until tender, adding a generous quantity of bacon fat and hot vinegar, together with some chopped bacon. Some like to include a few green onions and slices of hard-boiled eggs.

Extract of dandelion has recognized medicinal value as a diuretic, stomachic and cholagogue (if you care about that), but all you may care to know is that it is an excellent spring tonic, and that the exercise of gathering dandelions adds zest to the appetite.

However "easy" those monthly payments are represented to be, care should be taken to avoid a total that exceeds income—or had you already thought of that?

Harry Wade imagines that a great deal of baby-sitting is still done by grandmothers, "as they can't all be stepping out for rumba lessons."

An inviolable right of every American citizen is the right to holler when things are not going the way he wants them to go.

If you like variety in the weather April is sure to supply it.

Washington Calling

Effective Obstructionist

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE current award for blocking and tackling and general all-around obstruction must go to that stout citizen from Nevada, Sen. Pat McCarran. Although the competition has been keen, McCarran came through in splendid form, leaving the field far behind.

His outstanding achievement is in bottling up the proposal to change the displaced persons act. For nearly four months as chairman of a subcommittee supposed to consider the matter, McCarran has done nothing.

In spite of repeated pleadings and proddings, no hearings have been held and none have been scheduled. McCarran is now in Nevada, presumably telling the 75,000 voters of that state, who have three times sent him to the Senate, how hard he works in Washington.

The latest prod came from five Republican senators, Ives of New York, Ferguson of Michigan, Smith of New Jersey, Morse of Oregon and Saltonstall of Massachusetts. They took a step quite exceptional for that cozy club, the U S Senate, when they wrote to McCarran to ask him gently and respectfully but nonetheless firmly to get a move on.

They might have added, of course, that the indifference and unconcern of the two Republican members of the committee, Donnell of Missouri and Jenner of Indiana, have helped McCarran.

The only member of the group who seems concerned is Sen McGrath of Rhode Island, and McGrath's attitude toward McCarren is that of a swimmer who encounters in the surf a stinging sea nettle. Better let it alone if you don't want it to sting you again.

* * *

Was Campaign Issue.

WHILE the voter's memory is notoriously short, it can hardly have been forgotten what an important issue this was in the campaign last fall. West Virginia's Chapman Revercomb had bulldozed the Senate into accepting restrictions in a displaced-persons law aimed at Catholics and Jews.

As a result of those restrictions, only 14,468 DPS have come in since the act was adopted last June GOP candidate Thomas E Dewey refused to go into West Virginia to speak for Revercomb, who was defeated.

McCarran's stubborn sit-down is pointed up by what the House is doing. A House judiciary subcommittee has approved changes that would correct most of the injustices in the present law, eliminating the requirement that 30 percent of persons admitted must be of an agricultural background and 40 percent of Baltic origin. Majority leader John McCormack has made it virtually the first order of business to push for a more just law.

The House group approved the moving the "cut off date" from Dec. 22, 1945, as it is in the present law, to Jan. 1, 1949 This would make it possible to admit those who have fled from Iron Curtain countries to refugee camps since the end of the war.

This country is setting a miserable example to the world Smaller countries — Sweden is one—have taken in refugees in far greater numbers in proportion to their populations Thousands upon thousands of victims of war and dictatorship have spent years behind the barriers of despair in overcrowded camps

If the Senate would act, the Displaced Persons Commission in the state department is prepared to increase quotas rapidly. Beginning in July 16,000 persons a month would come in.

Award winner McCarran has another claim He contributed his share toward stopping the pay of Reclamation Commissioner Michael Straus and Straus's assistant, Richard Boke

Frankly Speaking

Dollars and Questions

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — This dollar has become a very important question in Congress now and for us at home and our friends abroad.

In spite of all that's been said and written about them so far this year, Congress still hasn't finished with three big items: The Marshall Plan, the Atlantic Pact, and our own defense program.

The big question with all three is: How much can we spend on them without getting into money trouble?

The cost of the three, the way President Truman wants them taken care of, would be about $22,000,000,000.

When you add that to about $20,000,000,000 for running the government at home, our total bill for another year would be around $42 billion.

So Congress' problem is: Can all that money be spent without raising taxes or putting the country in the red?

To see what lies ahead, first take the Marshall Plan—

Both House and Senate have "authorized" continuing the plan for helping Europe economically another year.

How much will it cost? Not so fast. In "authorizing" continuance of the plan, both houses have said that no more than about $5½ billion can be spent on it. Will that much be spent?

No one knows. There's a difference between "authorizing" and "appropriating." In "authorizing" Congress doesn't actually vote to spend any money.

* * *

"AUTHORIZING" is hardly more than saying something is a good idea. But before money can be spent, Congress has to vote again. This is called "appropriating" money.

And it's when Congress gets around to voting appropriations for the Marshall Plan that the money to be spent on it may be cut down.

How much? Again, no one knows. Two Republican leaders in the Senate, Taft of Ohio and Wherry of Nebraska, want cuts Taft has talked of chopping off 10 per cent and Wherry 15 per cent from the Marshall Plan.

So there'll be quite a to-do about the Marshall Plan all over again, when voting appropriations come around, even though the Senate took two weeks just voting to "authorize" it.

More time will be spent in debating the Atlantic Pact, plenty of time, in the Senate.

That pact simply says this country and 11 western European countries will stand together if attacked and will help arm one another.

Voting for the Pact itself doesn't involve spending any money. Nevertheless, there'll be a lot of debate on the Pact. But then comes something else, later.

The cost to us for doing that might run to $2 billion. That will mean a lot more argument in the Senate and it probably won't vote any $2 billion.

But paying the expense of our own armed forces will run to around $15 billion Can that be cut down? The Senate certainly will want to talk quite a while about that.

The mood in Congress is for economy, and talk about it. Even if the cuts are small the talk will be big.

Defends Endurance Test.

Editor News-Journal:

May I respectfully protest your editorial classing the plane-endurance, record-breaking pilots with flag-pole sitting exhibitionists. Your article encourages that too-prevalent habit of belittling a thing that is at variance with the routine of our daily life.

Presented with a "different" idea, how great is the tendency for most of us to scoff or even jeer! And when we do, we train others to do it, too.

Now the pilots who are presently concerned in your editorial are not primarily testing the ability of the human body to withstand physical discomfort They are doing just what Bill Odum did a short time ago: they are testing an aircraft and its engine under conditions that can be only approximated on the ground. The plane in this case is an Aeronca and the engion is a Continental.

You may be very sure that the flight is being watched with a very different sort of interest than that attendant upon a mere exhibitionist.

Public Lands Depleted By Overgrazing

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — One factor which contributes to disastrous floods in the Far West is overgrazing of national forests and public lands by big cattle and sheep ranchers. Regarding this, the present 81st Congress has now proved itself just as bad as the much-maligned Republican 80th Congress.

Last year the U. S. Forest Service was sharply criticised by a House public lands subcommittee, headed by GOP Congressman Frank Barrett of Wyoming, for being too strict on the big cattle and sheepmen and their grazing privileges.

The Forest Service replied that 50 per cent of public range lands were faced with erosion due to overgrazing and the range had to be policed carefully.

Otherwise cattlemen grazed too many head per acre on land that belonged not to them but to all the taxpayers.

Barrett vigorously dissented. After a series of public hearings, he and nine public lands colleagues sent a protest to former Agriculture Secretary Clinton Anderson, demanding the limitation of grazing be banned for three years. Anderson wouldn't hear of it and the Forest Service continued its farsighted policy of curtailing overgrazing.

This year the Forest Service is under congressional fire from the Democrats for the opposite reason—not cracking down hard enough on overgrazing.

However, one essential in the prevention of overgrazing is enough rangers to police the national forests. Cattlemen can go for months with twice the allotted number of head per acre on the range, unless enough forest rangers are on hand to police them.

And without bothering to question the Forest Service on this phase of its work, the House appropriations committee arbitrarily clipped its funds for forest rangers by $1,518,500, charging:

"The Forest Service has full authority to fix the number of grazing permits. . .but in many cases has not exercised it to the point necessary to prevent depredation."

Note—If this committee cut is approved by Congress, the $1,518,500 slash will cost the taxpayers tens of millions in erosion losses in future years.

Best Seller In Russia.

THE American embassies in Hungary, Roumania and Bulgaria have cabled the state department for large shipments of a book that may become a best seller behind the Iron Curtain—the Sears, Roebuck catalogue.

In Prague, Czechoslovakia, a crowd two blocks long formed outside the American informational library the other day to look at pictures of goods you could buy in America. Hundreds tried to place orders for these goods, before the Czech security police broke up the crowd.

American embassies in other Iron Curtain countries now want more mail-order house catalogues to show what capitalism means compared with communism.

The incident is important for two reasons: 1, It shows how eager the people of Iron Curtain countries are to do business with the United States; 2, It shoes how the state department has neglected some of the simplest devices to sell American capitalism in countries where it counts most.

For instance, the idea of distributing Sears, Roebuck catalogues behind the Iron Curtain was first proposed by Morris Ernst, New York attorney, to President Roosevelt personally. That was in 1944. The idea has been repeated from time to time in this column.

However, nothing was done—even in such countries as Czechoslovakia where communication is easy—until last month.

Meanwhile, Congress is becoming more and more concerned about the huge cost of both financing and rearming Western Europe against Russia. More and more congressmen are arguing that this will be an endless drain on the American pocketbook, and have come round to the idea that we must break through the Iron Curtain and undercut the Kremlin with people-to-people friendship.

Getting the Russian people acquainted with the American people is going to be the only long-term insurance against war.

Merci Train Steams On.

EXHIBITS of the French "Merci Train" gifts are still attracting tremendous crowds from coast-to-coast extending even to Honolulu, where the gifts were on display April 1. At Louisville, Ky., the J. B. Speed Art Museum had to hire additional help to handle the throngs of people. In the Capitol building at Madison, Wis., crowds moved three and four abreast past the gifts, and the waiting line was so long many people had to return the next day.

Wisconsin is sending its gifts by trailer to as many communities as request the exhibit, and anticipate it will take a year to cover the state. Madison, Wis., schools, the University of Wisconsin, and the Madison Business and Professional Women's club have taken on the mammoth task of acknowledging each French gift individually. Wisconsin has the reputation of being a German-American state but it believes in people-to-people friendship.

Bellamy Eats Again

By INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK — Detective Jim McLeod, the toughest cop on Broadway, gets himself killed dead as a doornail at 11:08 p. m. every day except Sunday on the stage of the Hudson theater.

But despite McLeod's boisterous demise in "Detective Story," a hit play which will probably run as indefinitely as a dog-track rabbit, the detective's perpetrator, one Ralph Bellamy, can't for the life of him understand that "a policeman's lot is not a happy one."

Bellamy professionally speaking, has never been happier in his whole stage-struck life than he is as Detective McLeod who gets his fatal dose of lead poisoning just before the final curtain.

At 44, Bellamy has the dramatic hit of his life time in his pocket, with both critics and audiences tossing their chapeaux in the air, and he — Bellamy — ain't mad at nobody.

As he sat in the offices of the Hudson theatre, Bellamy discussed many things, including the fact that he will eat regularly until June, 1950. He has just signed a contract to stick with the play for the next 14 months.

Bellamy, long a star of stage and screen, is a six-footer with shoulders like a wrestler, who gives no evidences of recent undernourishment. He has been living high on the hog for a good many years, but he remembers as yesterday when he existed in a Greenwich Village basement and didn't know where his next crust was coming from.

"Was I broke!" exclaimed this latter day Bellamy, with the expensive sun tan on his handsome face with its stubborn, determined jaw.

He was broke as a camel's back because of the sudden decease of stock, which expired almost without warning through a complication of causes including the depression, talking pictures and radio.

* * *

Adjusting To Change.

UNTIL the evaporation of theatrical stock companies from the american scene, Bellamy had played with his own company annually in Des Moines, Nashville, and Evanston, Ill.

"It was a good life," said Bellamy, who is now tasting for the first time the sensational sweets of great personal success on Broadway In those days in stock, he tasted success, too, he added, and it was usually sweet. Ladies who came to see him week after week in Des Moines or Nashville, sent pies and cakes, cookies and home-made candies in cascade across the footlights to their matinee idol.

"There were some awfully good cooks in Des Moines," he said, rather dreamily, I thought, as he closed his electric blue eyes the better — probably — to conjure up that vision of angel food cakes.

Apparently, New York audiences can't cook. At least, Bellamy hasn't received a single pie or batch of fudge in the years he has played on Broadway.

"New York audiences give you pie all right," he grinned. "There isn't any pie in the world as sweet as that great, big hand a New York audience gives out with when it is really pleased. I will take a slab of that any day in preference to apple, peach or strawberry."

As one cop to another, Bellamy is awfully pleased at a fan letter from a former New York flatfoot, Mayor William O'Dwyer, who wrote praising Bellamy's performance as Detective McLeod and commending the play in general.

As an actor who had the courage to quit Hollywood because he was always cast a "a naive, dull but charming chap" (the late Mark Hellinger's description of a typical Bellamy movie character), he would still like to be able to divide his time between Broadway and Hollywood—if Hollywood would only recognize his ability as, say, the kind of rough, tough uncompromising guy he plays as detective McLeod.

In Hollywood pictures, Bellamy always lost the girl to Cary Grant or some other smooth character. But now that he is a full fledged matinee idol, with gals ganging up at the stage door for his autograph, he believes he ought to get the girl once in a while.

Merely a Thought.

Farmer's Diary

Heard Over Grapevine

By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE MAN is a teacher at Senior high school, in our town. He lives on a farm of 160 acres a few miles north, with his wife and their family of four children.

On Sundays he preaches at the little Brethren church of his community. As perhaps you know, it is the custom of this denomination that their minister receive little cash for his work. Instead he is counted one of the brotherhood whom he serves. The stricter, older members of the sect wear "plain" clothes—straight rimmed black hats for the men, black bonnets over quaint caps of lace or sheer fine net, for the women. (My own parents wore such clothing)

Neighborliness is part of the practical religion of these people, and they are not chary with their helpful spirit, although their thrift in other ways is quietly remarkable.

Now it happened that this useful minister-teacher contracted a painful local inflammation of the subcutaneous tissue, in a place where it caused him acute embarrassment . . also tested his religion tediously. He made his Sunday sermon short and thought he had concealed his tension admirably; so he went home and read again the second chapter of Job. He looked up "potsherd" in the dictionary. "Poor Job—he was frantic—and no wonder!"

Monday morning came. It was time to drive to town to take up his duties at the public school. His car wouldn't start! He groaned and tried to crank it. His game wife got the tractor out and tried to pull him while he worked the starter and the accelerator.

The tractor jerked and spurted. The morning was frosty. The car's engine flooded and bogged down. Sitting high and lightly, the parson suffered agonies before he finally got the little woman to stop! Maybe he prayed some, I don't know.

Anyhow, just then a neighbor came on the run, took over the job, and started the car at the first try. "I'll drive you into town in my car," he said, "and come after you this evening."

"No," the stubborn sufferer declared, "I'll make it, alone."

But the neighbor's wife had been using the telephone. Now she ran out, with authority in her eye. "You're to stop at the Doc's on your way into town," she said. "He said tell you he'd wait till you came, before going on his rounds—wants to see you a few minutes."

When the fellow stopped at the country doctor's place, the Doc had his scalpel ready. "A big carbuncle can be bad business, brother, but with this dressing the worst'll be over! There—isn't that quite a relief?"

"It beats me how they all knew—I hadn't told a soul," said the teacher to me. "People are wonderful—now aren't they?"

"Things do get around over the country grapevine, I agreed. "And the fertile grassroots spirit makes a sturdier growth every year. If we, each do our part, some day this world will grow green with understanding!"

He said "Amen."

Horoscope

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Wednesday, April 20

The auguries for this day, may be read as more than customarily perilous to all established business, plans, prospects and ambitions, recently put in jeopardy by rash, ungoverned and erratic impulses or wild ideas. It may be difficult to clear the atmosphere from the damage, crash and loss through strange tactics, since judgment is obscure and hostile to possible assistance from those who might be available for advice. The cost may be great in financial, influential and family assets and composure, only to be restored by tact, humility.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, are urged to draw upon their finer instincts, stability of character and solid abilities, in order to seek to "mend broken fences," incident ot recent rampgaes in which erratic, irrational and temperamental behavior may have put in jeopardy very promising and soundly established foundations for a productive, progressive, secure and lasting fair fortune. While the mentality may not have a clear view of complicated situations, or sound perspective on a warped or bungled state of affairs, yet a friendly, amiable and candid approach to those possibly cooperative in their sympathetic understanding, may assist to recoup the damage and redeem ravaged resources.

A child born on this day may be prone to rash, involved, and complicated judgment, impeling danger and loss. It may need kindly direction in making friends and maintaining gracious support from influential sources.

New Deal 'Brain Truster' Testifies on FEPC Act for Ohio

Claims Bill Damaging For Labor

Senate Committee Hears Richberg

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The Senate Labor committee today asked Donald R. Richberg of NRA fame to tell why he opposed compulsory anti-discrimination laws for industry.

The committee is conducting hearings on the House-approved FEPC bill endorsed by Gov. Frank J. Lausche, union labor, churches and racial groups.

The measure proposes fair employment practices laws for Ohio enforced through a commission and the courts.

Richberg's appearance was sponsored by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce. The chamber, manufacturers and some church organizations oppose the FEPC bill.

Richberg told newsmen he had no objection to an educational FEPC program. He had this to say of a compulsory statute:

"You will not have any business management left. There is nothing to stop it from being extended to sex and age.

"The government is going to decide who is qualified for a job and you will break down what would otherwise be a harmonious working group.

"If the government is going to step in an tell you how to operate, it may be a good thing for labor today, but it may ruin labor tomorrow.

"I have no objection to an educational law. I don't know of anywhere that they enforce the law. In New York they had 610 cases up to last year and one case in court. That indicates there is no need for the law, or it is not being enforced."

Asked about communistic endoresement of FEPC, Richberg said:

"The FEPC is most unfortunately communistic, because it is aimed at the destruction of private management. The compulsory arbitration of strikes is mild in comparison with compulsory FEPC."

Richberg, an original new deal "brain truster," was co-author of the old National Recovery act. He later was chairman of the NRA board. He is co-author of the Railroad Labor act and now is a labor union attorney in Washington.

Horse Bets Led to Hoax

in a safety deposit box in my name. I used to bet small.

Then the itch to take a big chance got into my blood when several two dollar bets paid off in hundreds.

But then I began losing, and it all began to add up. When I had lost $1,200 of the money from the safe deposit box I decided to go into business to recoup.

I bought a novelty shop from a woman on Third street, but it was no good. In the first ten days I didn't get a single customer.

I took more money from the box to put in a line of evening clothes for rent.

Later I moved the business to Sunset boulevard and invested still more money. All the while I was also taking money from the box in the hope that with one big bet—like $1,000—I could get it all back.

One day two very tough looking men came to the house and asked for my husband. They said he owed them some money. They didn't say they were bookies or just who they were.

Then Joe told me he had to have $3,500.

I nearly went crazy with fear. I went down and counted the money in the box and found only $1,200. I wanted to kill myself, but I knew I couldn't be separated from Joe.

I thought I would fake a robbery but on thinking it over I decided no one would believe me since the money was in the bank.

Then I decided on the kidnaping idea to hide that I had lost almost all the $33,000.

After it was all over I got my husband to put me on a plane for Reidsville with our boy.

I was glad to get out of that terible, terrible town of Los Angeles.

I decided to tell the police in California that I made the fake kidnaping because my conscience bothered me. I haven't been able to sleep or eat and I feel sick.

Pray my husband will forgive me. He's a wonderful man. He's never done a wrong thing in his life.

Woman Near Death, Deaf Mute Held

Police Probe Brutal Beating

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS) — A San Francisco widow, Mrs. John T. Payne, 62, was near death early today from the effects of a violent beating and police were questioning her pretty niece, a deaf mute from Los Angeles.

The 24-year-old brunette girl, Nancy Hammack, summoned a neighbor who found Mrs. Payne lying half conscious and bleeding in the front hall of her home at about midnight.

The neighbor, Major Gen. William E. Lynd, who commanded the U. S. Fourth Air Force during the war, said Miss Hammack came to his door barefooted and dressed in blood-stained pajamas and a green robe. Lynd said the deaf mute girl handed him a note reading:

"My aunt is stay in living room by man hits."

There were evidences of a violent struggle on both the first and second floors of Mrs. Payne's home. These included overturned furniture rumpled bedclothes and trails of blood leading from upstairs to the lower floor.

Police said they found no indication of anyone having forced entry into the house nor any sign of robbery.

The authorities, reconstructing the incident, said Mrs. Payne had been reading in bed in an upstairs room of the seven-room house while Miss Hammack was playing solitaire in the same room.

It was in that room, the police asserted, that the struggle started. The trail of blood led from the bedroom down the stairs to the living room, where lamps and a fire screen were overturned, and ended in the hallway where Mrs. Payne was found.

Authorities were questioning Miss Hammack by means of notes. Police Inspector Tom Cahill said he scribbled, "Why did you do it?" and that the girl wrote: "I do not know that.

During the questioning the girl penciled the words: "How's my aunt now?"

An officer wrote: "Still alive."

Landlords Told to List Properties

Director Cites New Regulations

Mansfield area landlords were given several reminders today about the new rent-control law by George W. Blecker, area rent control director.

Landlords whose properties have been decontrolled because of owner occupancy, were warned they must notify the housing director before May 1 if they are again renting their properties.

Blecker said landlords who are renting their houses for the first time also must notify the rent office if the property was constructed before Feb. 1, 1947.

Cases in which leases have terminated must be reported to the rent office so a termination of lease proceeding may be instituted for the landlord's protection.

Finally, Blecker warned land lords that rent overcharges would be dealt with more severly under the new law. Persons found guilty of rent overcharges will have to pay triple the amount of the overcharge and will have to negotiate with the government rather than the tenant as under the old law.

Persons wishing to contact the rent office may call 2724-6 or visit the office at 48½ West Second street.

Power, Light Plant Audit Proposed to Council In Shelby

Independent Survey Aim Of Member

Smoke Nuisance Complaint Lodged

SHELBY — Last night's council meeting was enlivened when Councilman J. M. Herlihy expressed the opinion an independent audit should be taken of the municipal power and light operations. He proposed this action in addition to annual audit conducted by the state.

J. P. Adkins, manager of the plant, termed the survey unnecessary. In reply Herlihy remarked he couldn't understand with mounting coal costs why one local firm's cost for steam heat remained unchanged. Councilman E. E. Eckert joined in the verbal tiff to say he thought the city should be making a profit on steam heat.

Mayor William Morris instructed Adkins to report at next council meeting on the cost manufacturing rates in comparison with other cities. This followed Adkins' earlier remark he would have brought a copy of Cleveland's rates if he had known the discussion would have arisen.

John Hogue, store owner and North Broadway area citizens' spokesman, asked council to do something about the smoke nuisance caused by furnaces of the Shelby Spring Hinge company.

Council passed an ordinance for improvements on Morris road consisting of 475 feet of six-inch water line to be installed from Auburn avenue to the new elementary school.

Another resolution passed authorized the mayor to lease the shelby Pythian Castel company building at a $10 per year rental rate on a perpetual one automatically renewed each year. The lease would carry a 60-day termination clause and incorporate the removal of raw water lines now running behind the present structure.

Dems to Hear Mayor Tonight

Two Democratic state officials will be guests at the Jefferson Day banquet tonight when Mayor Thomas Burke of Cleveland makes an address.

The banquet will get under way at 6:30 p. m. at the Richland Recreation center. About 400 persons have made reservations.

The state officials are State Auditors Joseph T. Ferguson and Robert W. Levering, an assistant attorney general.

It's our family's whiskey neighbor, and neighbor, it's your price!

That's a picture of Dad we keep hanging in the front hall
In this snap I'm pointing to Harry E. Wilken the second, a grand distiller. He taught us to make fine whiskey, just as his Pop taught him. That's my brother William to the right and my brother-in-law Tom to the left, and our dog Jessie in the middle, as usual.

Here's our family's whiskey back again,
and just as tasty as my Dad
and Grandpa used to make it

Yes, it's been a long long time since folks could enjoy any of that good tasty whiskey our family used to make. But not so long that folks don't remember it well, and write to ask us what became of it. Well, after our spell of war work, it just plain took time to get our old gang together, and get our distillery to where it was turning out our family's recipe in the good old way. By now we're rolling again, and you folks can get the same tasty whiskey as us distillers drink ourselves. Best part of the whole thing is how many folks say our whiskey's better now than they recollect it ever was. And they're mighty pleased the way we keep the price real reasonable.

Relates Some Newspaper Tales, Old and New, With Punch Lines

WHEN JAMES GORDON BENNETT exploded on the journalistic scene, the namby-pamby newspaper era went up in smoke. Before Bennett went into action crime news was either completely ignored or brushed off with a single paragraph on inside pages . . .

The slaying of a prostitute gave Bennett his opportunity to break away from the staid style of reporting: He dug up evidence that amazed the police and irked his competitors. Bennett plastered the facts across his front pages—and stunned the town by publishing interviews with Ladies of the Evening who knew the victim . . . The circulation of Bennett's gazette rocketed—and his competitors were forced to follow suit.

Bennett's stinging reply to the howlers: "The press is the living jury of the nation!"

Bennett was inspired to join the journalistic profession after an editor-friend whipped up his enthusiasm with: "A journalist is the most important personage of our day. Think of it, you are a journalist! Your thoughts, your ideas, become on the morrow the thoughts and ideas of thousands of people. You can fight crime and corruption and you can walk the streets hearing them utter your thoughts as their own!" . . . After the pep-talk the glowing Bennett promptly asked his editor-friend for a job. And so—he became a journalist.

P. S.: His salary was $5 per week.

★

THEN THERE'S the chuckler concerning police reporter Buddy McHugh. He attempted to get information by calling the house where a murder had been committed and announcing boldly: This is Chuck Reynolds of the coroner's office."

The reply he received caused the red-faced McHugh to hang up pronto: "That's funny —so is this!"

For those who grumble that spotlighting crime news is mere sensation-mongering — there's this yarn: A convict in a Florida prison was once tortured and killed by sadistic guards. Local sheets pigeonholed the story because it was too hot . . . One year later the N. Y. World received a tip about the atrocity. A reporter investigated and made the facts public.

Within six weeks after the expose was published — this was the result: The judge and sheriff were fired. The guard who beat the convict was charged with murder.

Hal Boyle

Makes a Confession About Clan Boyle and Irish Fight For Liberty

NEW YORK — I have a confession to make, now that Ireland is physically free.

Or at least the 17,146,793 acres of its 26 southern counties are free. And anyone who knows the Irish will understand that—in God's good time—the remaining 3,353,251 acres in the six northern counties will be separated from the British crown, too.

After all, it has taken the Irish only 780 years to reach the point where they are today. That is, they have at long last freed the scenery of Ireland, the picture postcard part. They don't feel it will take another 780 years to gather in Ulster, the six-county northern part where Ireland's wealth and industry centers.

But if it does take 780 years, they will fight that long. And they will force the reluctant north into a united Ireland, when the time comes, just as in America the more populated northern states compelled the rebellious southern states to accept again the pattern of unity.

And now I must break down and make my confession.

There is joy in the tribe of O'Kelly. Delight dwells among the houses of Parnell and Collins and O'Neil. The Pearses, the Houlihans, the O'Sullivans, the O'Reillys, the Emmets, the Casements, the MacNeills, and the O'Connells—they are proud families this week.

For by word and deed they struck great blows for Ireland's freedom.

But the grand clans of Boyle and Gavagan, what did they do? As far as I can find —sh-h-h! — all they did to help Ireland was to emigrate from her. But, first, let's have some background:

The weary fight the Irish made for their liberty through the centuries became in time a kind of "Pat and Mike" joke to the rest of the world.

That fight went on for so long that it came to bore everybody but the Irish themselves. The world forgot the justice of any people's right to rule themselves in their own land.

How many know that back in 1841 the population of Ireland was 8,175,124, almost double its population today; how many know that in the potato famine of a century ago 1,000,000 Irishmen died, and many died on the wharves watching their small crops being loaded on ships bound for England?

In the ten years after 1847 some 1,500,000 Irishmen had to emigrate. And other millions later had to leave.

Do you know that the Irish once even tried giving up whisky to get England to free them? A temperance campaign launched by Father Mathew in 1849 cut the consumption of liquor from 12,000,000 gallons to 5,000,000 gallons. The campaign collapsed after Father Mathew died in 1856.

★

AMONG THE IRISH who came to this country was my grandfather. He worked in the coal mines. In his cups Grandpa Boyle — no disciple of Father Mathew's temperance program—used to hint darkly of his war with the empire. He spoke of hiding in the carcass of a horse while British soldiers searched for him. This, I am sure, was pure imagination.

One of his ten sons met and married my mother, Margaret Gavagan, who had come from Ireland at 16.

I went to London during the war expecting to dislike the British intensly. When I came back after war was over, my mother asked me what I thought of the English.

"I think they have more courage and character than any people on the faceo f the earth," I told her. And it was what I felt.

Mother laughed.

"You know, I've never told you this before," she said. "But your grandfather Gavagan never took any part in the Irish freedom movement. He liked the English."

4 Happiness Hints Given To Foremen

Dr. Anspach Tells Club Singing Helps

"Just keep singing in the rain," was the advice given to 300 members of the Mansfield-Shelby Foreman's club and their wives at the annual "Ladies night" of the club last night at the Richland Recreation center.

The advice was offered by Dr. Charles L. Anspach, president of the Central Michigan College of Education, Mt. Pleasant, Mich., and former president of Ashland college, as one of the "leaves" in his "four-leaf clover" address.

Stressing the need for the ability to take life as it is and make the most of it, the educator said there were four things that would keep life bright for the person who looked for them.

He said, "Be able to sing in the rain and keep smiling regardless of the times or conditions; appreciate the common things in life,—a beautiful sunrise, the stars at night, or the look in a child's eyes; have a sense of humor and have the courage to dream dreams."

James Root, president of the Foremen's organization, was master of ceremonies for the evening. Invocation for the dinner was given by Rev. Harold H. Lentz of Ashland.

Amvets Plan Convention

Kalbfleisch To Be On Committee

C. J. Kalbfleish will serve on the constitution committee at the Amvets state convention to be held at Sandusky June 24, 25, and 26, it was announced at a meeting of Mansfield Amvets last night.

During the business meeting, the group voted to make a contribution to the Mansfield cancer fund.

Commander Robert Bonham reminded members of the third annual dinner meeting to be held at the Amvet club, West Fourth street road, at 6:30 p. m. today.

He also announced there will be a showing of the Mansfield-Hamilton football movies at the club at 8 p. m. Wednesday. A member of the Senior high school football coaching staff will be on hand to explain the movies.

The May 2 meeting of the group has been cancelled because that is the date of the benefit dance for Friendly House. The dance is being jointly sponsored by the Mansfield Amvets and the American Federation of Musicians, Local 159.

Meet On Thursday

There will be a meeting of the Richland County Beekeepers association in the jurors room of the Court House at 8 p. m. Thursday, it was announced today by C. W. Vogel, president.

200 Kiddies Scramble For 700 Hidden Eggs

By ROBERT SCHWEITZ

At the given signal more than 200 youngsters swarmed down the hill at South park yesterday afternoon, each hoping he would find more eggs than any other scurrying, shouting competitor.

Tots of five and youngsters as old as 13 scoured every inch of the park in the hunt for the 700 eggs hidden at the base of trees, in the grass, and near rocks by the Volunteers of America directed by Lt. Maj. R. L. Gutterman.

The annual Easter event, delayed two days because of bad weather, was held at 3 p. m. yesterday despite the cold and occasional rain. The only persons who noticed the weather at all were the small group of parents gathered around the pavilion waiting for their youngsters to finish the hunt.

Eager as the children were to get the most eggs and the dollar prize, one of the waiting parents reported she saw one little seven-year-old standing near a tree and crying that she couldn't find any eggs.

An older girl who had collected 10 already emptied half of hers into the younger child's basket.

There were 20 eggs hidden with the marking "50c" on them. Each of these was exchanged for that amount of money by Gutterman. The youngster finding the most eggs, Joseph Burton, 12, of 120 North Adams street, received a one dollar prize for his 38 brightly-colored eggs.

Youngest child to find a 50-cent egg was Glenn Harry Cartney, jr., 5, who found two of them. He lives at 233 West Sixth street.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—

Most people at least dream of taking a holiday on their birthday. Not so with Miss Callie Mengert, 117½ South Adams street. Miss Mengert who is 73 years "young" today is, as usual, waiting on customers at the Penrose grocery at 353 Sturges avenue. The store is owned by her nephew, Evard Penrose. Of course there are a few extra adornments for the spry little lady's anniversary. Other employes of the grocery are helping her celebrate with a big birthday cake and flowers. Altogether, Miss Mengert estimates she's spent at least 25 years behind a grocery counter. Tonight there will be a family dinner at the home of her niece, Mrs. Jack Berger, 353½ Sturges avenue, and guests will include the other nieces and nephews, Joseph Penrose, 282 West Third street; Mrs. William Hahn, 70 Gibson avenue; and Mrs. Loi Cunnick, 353 Sturges avenue, and their families.

MARKS ITS EGG—

A chicken in the Mansfield area decided to "get into the act" and play Easter bunny. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Kimble, 200 Gerke avenue, found an egg that was decorated inside the shell when Mrs. Kimble cracked one of the hard-boiled eggs she was planning to devil. Kimble, who said they got the egg in the country near Mansfield, couldn't explan how the decorating job was done. When the shell was cracked the Kimbles found what looked like printed blue letters on the white of the egg. The shell of the egg had not been dyed, and it was perfectly white. The Kimbles are still trying to figure out what the letters says, if anything, and how they got there. One word looks like "Ohio."

QUAKE DAMAGES HOME—

The recent earthquake in Washington was brought close to home to one Mansfielder yesterday. Mrs. C. M. Hanna, 151 West Third street, received a letter from her sister, Dr. Emma Morris, of Chehalis, Wash., telling how many of her home's furnishings were broken by the earthquake. Her sister reports pictures fell from the walls, chinaware was shaken from the cupboards, and she would have been knocked to the floor if she hadn't clung to a door frame. According to Mrs. Hanna's sister, damage to buildings was confined mostly to rigid brick and masonary buildings and not frame homes.

Teachers' Pay Bill Shelved

Ohio Officials Play 'Hookey'

COLUMBUS —(UP)—Senate leaders called a "you're out!" today on the $27,500,000 bill to increase school teachers' pay and subsidy programs as baseball fever slowed action of the Ohio legislature.

Sen. Margaret Mahoney, D., Cuyahoga, majority floor leader, announced that the school bill proposing $25 monthly teachers pay increases and a $3.50 boost in her pupil subsidy would be held in the Rules committee.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche has opposed the measure as dangerous to his financial program. The governor also turned thumbs down on the proposed switch from a retail sales tax to gross receipts tax as a means to finance the subsidy increase.

The proposed tax method switch was attacked by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce at the same time as imposing new taxes in excess of $60,000,000 annualy and "multiple taxation."

Absenteeism slowed down the legislature as members of both houses played hookey to attend the opening game of the Cincinnati Reds in the queen city. Roll calls showed nine sneators and 33 representatives absent last night and the figures were expected to be higher today.

Eleven committee meetings were scheduled today and absenteeism made it difficult for chairmen to assemble a quorum of committee members. A hearing of the Senate Liquor committee was called off last night because of the lack of enough members to proceed.

Other legislative developments included:

Construction program — a resolution introduced in the Senate would halt the $50,000,000 state building program for 30 days.

Conservation department — Concurrence to House amendments to the bill setting up a seven-division unified department of conservation for Ohio was scheduled in the Senate today. The bill will then go to Gov. Frank J. Lausche for approval.

Unemployment compensation — Rep. Ed Witmer, D., Stark, said work of the House Industry and Labor sub-committee on the jobless pay bill would be delayed until Wednesday.

Back Eisler Conviction

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The U S court of appeals Monday upheld by a 2 to 1 vote the conviction of Gerhart Eisler for concealing communist ties when seeking a permit to leave the United States in 1945.

Eisler calls himself a German communist. He has been labeled the "number one communist' agent in this country.

Justice Wilbur K Miller delivered the opinion. Justice Bennett Champ Clark concurred. Justice Henry W. Edgerton dissented.

Eisler is under a 1-to-3 year sentence for the conviction which took place in federal district here. Justice Miller said that Eisler's insistence that the evidence was insufficient to support the verdict "is so obviously without basis as to require no discussion"

Walter Winchell

Relates Some Newspaper Tales, Old and New, With Punch Lines

WHEN JAMES GORDON BENNETT exploded on the journalistic scene, the namby-pamby newspaper era went up in smoke. Before Bennett went into action crime news was either completely ignored or brushed off with a single paragraph on inside pages . . .

The slaying of a prostitute gave Bennett his opportunity to break away from the staid style of reporting: He dug up evidence that amazed the police and irked his competitors. Bennett plastered the facts across his front pages—and stunned the town by publishing interviews with Ladies of the Evening who knew the victim . . . The circulation of Bennett's gazette rocketed—and his competitors were forced to follow suit.

Bennett's stinging reply to the howlers: "The press is the living jury of the nation!"

Bennett was inspired to join the journalistic profession after an editor-friend whipped up his enthusiasm with: "A journalist is the most important personage of our day. Think of it, you are a journalist! Your thoughts, your ideas, become on the morrow the thoughts and ideas of thousands of people. You can fight crime and corruption and you can walk the streets hearing them utter your thoughts as their own!" . . . After the pep-talk the glowing Bennett promptly asked his editor-friend for a job. And so—he became a journalist.

P. S.: His salary was $5 per week.

★

THEN THERE'S the chuckler concerning police reporter Buddy McHugh. He attempted to get information by calling the house where a murder had been committed and announcing boldly: This is Chuck Reynolds of the coroner's office."

The reply he received caused the red-faced McHugh to hang up pronto: "That's funny —so is this!"

For those who grumble that spotlighting crime news is mere sensation-mongering — there's this yarn: A convict in a Florida prison was once tortured and killed by sadistic guards. Local sheets pigeonholed the story because it was too hot . . . One year later the N. Y. World received a tip about the atrocity. A reporter investigated and made the facts public.

Within six weeks after the expose was published — this was the result: The judge and sheriff were fired. The guard who beat the convict was charged with murder.

Makes a Confession About Clan Boyle and Irish Fight For Liberty

NEW YORK — I have a confession to make, now that Ireland is physically free.

Or at least the 17,146,793 acres of its 26 southern counties are free. And anyone who knows the Irish will understand that—in God's good time—the remaining 3,353,251 acres in the six northern counties will be separated from the British crown, too.

After all, it has taken the Irish only 780 years to reach the point where they are today. That is, they have at long last freed the scenery of Ireland, the picture postcard part. They don't feel it will take another 780 years to gather in Ulster, the six-county northern part where Ireland's wealth and industry centers.

But if it does take 780 years, they will fight that long. And they will force the reluctant north into a united Ireland, when the time comes, just as in America the more populated northern states compelled the rebellious southern states to accept again the pattern of unity.

And now I must break down and make my confession.

There is joy in the tribe of O'Kelly. Delight dwells among the houses of Parnell and Collins and O'Neil. The Pearses, the Houlihans, the O'Sullivans, the O'Reillys, the Emmets, the Casements, the MacNeills, and the O'Connells—they are proud families this week.

For by word and deed they struck great blows for Ireland's freedom.

But the grand clans of Boyle and Gavagan, what did they do? As far as I can find —sh-h-h! — all they did to help Ireland was to emigrate from her. But, first, let's have some background:

The weary fight the Irish made for their liberty through the centuries became in time a kind of "Pat and Mike" joke to the rest of the world.

That fight went on for so long that it came to bore everybody but the Irish themselves. The world forgot the justice of any people's right to rule themselves in their own land.

How many know that back in 1841 the population of Ireland was 8,175,124, almost double its population today; how many know that in the potato famine of a century ago 1,000,000 Irishmen died, and many died on the wharves watching their small crops being loaded on ships bound for England?

In the ten years after 1847 some 1,500,000 Irishmen had to emigrate. And other millions later had to leave.

Do you know that the Irish once even tried giving up whisky to get England to free them? A temperance campaign launched by Father Mathew in 1849 cut the consumption of liquor from 12,000,000 gallons to 5,000,000 gallons. The campaign collapsed after Father Mathew died in 1856.

★

AMONG THE IRISH who came to this country was my grandfather. He worked in the coal mines. In his cups Grandpa Boyle — no disciple of Father Mathew's temperance program—used to hint darkly of his war with the empire. He spoke of hiding in the carcass of a horse while British soldiers searched for him. This, I am sure, was pure imagination.

One of his ten sons met and married my mother, Margaret Gavagan, who had come from Ireland at 16.

I went to London during the war expecting to dislike the British intensly. When I came back after war was over, my mother asked me what I thought of the English.

"I think they have more courage and character than any people on the faceo f the earth," I told her. And it was what I felt.

Mother laughed.

"You know, I've never told you this before," she said. "But your grandfather Gavagan never took any part in the Irish freedom movement. He liked the English."

4 Happiness Hints Given To Foremen

Dr. Anspach Tells Club Singing Helps

"Just keep singing in the rain," was the advice given to 300 members of the Mansfield-Shelby Foreman's club and their wives at the annual "Ladies night" of the club last night at the Richland Recreation center.

The advice was offered by Dr. Charles L. Anspach, president of the Central Michigan College of Education, Mt. Pleasant, Mich., and former president of Ashland college, as one of the "leaves" in his "four-leaf clover" address.

Stressing the need for the ability to take life as it is and make the most of it, the educator said there were four things that would keep life bright for the person who looked for them.

He said, "Be able to sing in the rain and keep smiling regardless of the times or conditions; appreciate the common things in life,—a beautiful surnrise, the stars at night, or the look in a child's eyes; have a sense of humor and have the courage to dream dreams."

James Root, president of the Foremen's organization, was master of ceremonies for the evening. Invocation for the dinner was given by Rev. Harold H. Lentz of Ashland.

200 Kiddies Scramble For 700 Hidden Eggs

By ROBERT SCHWEITZ

At the given signal more than 200 youngsters swarmed down the hill at South park yesterday afternoon, each hoping he would find more eggs than any other scurrying, shouting competitor.

Tots of five and youngsters as old as 13 scoured every inch of the park in the hunt for the 700 eggs hidden at the base of trees, in the grass, and near rocks by the Volunteers of America directed by Lt. Maj. R. L. Gutterman.

The annual Easter event, delayed two days because of bad weather, was held at 3 p. m. yesterday despite the cold and occasional rain. The only persons who noticed the weather at all were the small group of parents gathered around the pavilion waiting for their youngsters to finish the hunt.

Eager as the children were to get the most eggs and the dollar prize, one of the waiting parents reported she saw one little seven-year-old standing near a tree and crying that she couldn't find any eggs.

An older girl who had collected 10 already emptied half of hers into the younger child's basket.

There were 20 eggs hidden with the marking "50c" on them. Each of these was exchanged for that amount of money by Gutterman. The youngster finding the most eggs, Joseph Burton, 12, of 120 North Adams street, received a one dollar prize for his 38 brightly-colored eggs.

Youngest child to find a 50-cent egg was Glenn Harry Cartney, jr., 5, who found two of them. He lives at 233 West Sixth street.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—

Most people at least dream of taking a holiday on their birthday. Not so with Miss Callie Mengert, 117½ South Adams street. Miss Mengert who is 73 years "young" today is, as usual, waiting on customers at the Penrose grocery at 353 Sturges avenue. The store is owned by her nephew, Evard Penrose. Of course there are a few extra adornments for the spry little lady's anniversary. Other employes of the grocery are helping her celebrate with a big birthday cake and flowers. Altogether, Miss Mengert estimates she's spent at least 25 years behind a grocery counter. Tonight there will be a family dinner at the home of her niece, Mrs. Jack Berger, 353½ Sturges avenue, and guests will include the other nieces and nephews. Joseph Penrose, 282 West Third street; Mrs. William Hahn, 70 Gibson avenue; and Mrs. Loi Cunnick, 353 Sturges avenue, and their families.

MARKS ITS EGG—

A chicken in the Mansfield area decided to "get into the act" and play Easter bunny. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Kimble, 200 Gerke avenue, found an egg that was decorated inside the shell when Mrs. Kimble cracked one of the hard-boiled eggs she was planning to devil. Kimble, who said they got the egg in the country near Mansfield, couldn't explan how the decorating job was done. When the shell was cracked the Kimbles found what looked like printed blue letters on the white of the egg. The shell of the egg had not been dyed, and it was perfectly white. The Kimbles are still trying to figure out what the letters says, if anything, and how they got there. One word looks like "Ohio."

NEW CHAPTER—

Another chapter will be added to the success story of Jane Wilson, former Mansfielder and one-time member of The News-Journal staff, when she makes her debut on television tonight. Jane, who is the soprano vocalist with Fred Waring's orchestra, will appear with the orchestra over the television network from 9 to 10 p. m.

QUAKE DAMAGES HOME—

The recent earthquake in Washington was brought close to home to one Mansfielder yesterday. Mrs. C. M. Hanna, 151 West Third street, received a letter from her sister, Dr. Emma Morris, of Chehalis, Wash., telling how many of her home's furnishings were broken by the earthquake. Her sister reports pictures fell from the walls, chinaware was shaken from the cupboards, and she would have been knocked to the floor if she hadn't clung to a door frame. According to Mrs. Hanna's sister, damage to buildings was confined mostly to rigid brick and masonary buildings and not frame homes.

Teachers' Pay Bill Shelved

Ohio Officials Play 'Hookey'

COLUMBUS —(UP)—Senate leaders called a "you're out!" today on the $27,500,000 bill to increase school teachers' pay and subsidy programs as baseball fever slowed action of the Ohio legislature.

Sen. Margaret Mahoney, D., Cuyahoga, majority floor leader, announced that the school bill proposing $25 monthly teachers pay increases and a $3.50 boost in her pupil subsidy would be held in the Rules committee.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche has opposed the measure as dangerous to his financial program. The governor also turned thumbs down on the proposed switch from a retail sales tax to gross receipts tax as a means to finance the subsidy increase.

The proposed tax method switch was attacked by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce at the same time as imposing new taxes in excess of $60,000,000 annualy and "multiple taxation."

Absenteeism slowed down the legislature as members of both houses played hookey to attend the opening game of the Cincinnati Reds in the queen city. Roll calls showed nine sneators and 33 representatives absent last night and the figures were expected to be higher today.

Eleven committee meetings were scheduled today and absenteeism made it difficult for chairmen to assemble a quorum of committee members. A hearing of the Senate Liquor committee was called off last night because of the lack of enough members to proceed.

Other legislative developments included:

Construction program — a resolution introduced in the Senate would halt the $50,000,000 state building program for 30 days.

Conservation department — Concurrence to House amendments to the bill setting up a seven-division unified department of conservation for Ohio was scheduled in the Senate today. The bill will then go to Gov. Frank J. Lausche for approval.

Unemployment compensation — Rep. Ed Witmer, D., Stark, said work of the House Industry and Labor sub-committee on the jobless pay bill would be delayed until Wednesday.

Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Troit Hiner, Perrysville; a sister, Mrs. S. A. Vance, Ashland; and two brothers, L. E. Atherton, Mt. Vernon, and J. R. Atherton, Butler.

The body is at the Jones Memorial and will be taken to her home in Perrysville tomorrow where services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. by Rev. Lena Jennings of the Perrysville Presbyterian church. Burial will be in the Greenlawn cemetery.

'Murder By Plane Crash'

NEW YORK—(INS)—Rear Admiral Ellis M. Zacharias has declared that the air crash death of top Soviet Diplomat Constantine A. Oumansky in 1945 was a planned murder to avenge the assassination of Leon Trotsky.

Zacharias, wartime chief of the office of naval intelligence, said: "Ambassador Constantine Oumansky's murder was an act of revenge. He paid with his life for the murder of Leon Trotsky, one of the founders of the Soviet Union, but an arch enemy of the Stalin regime."

Trotsky was murdered in his exile at Mexico City in 1940 by a man said to have been a Russian agent. Oumansky, his wife and three members of the Russian embassy in Mexico died in 1945 when a Mexican plane in which they were riding crashed.

Zacharias added:

"The liquidation of Oumansky had tremendous political and diplomatic consequences. According to informants whose judgment we respect, Oumansky's death saved several Latin American countries from strikes and revolution.

"These conspiracies were planned in the Soviet embassy at Mexico City under Oumansky's personal direction. His death terminated the subversive activities. His successor in Mexico City did not have the authority or the ability to continue the work of the former ambassador.

"The Oumansky case retains much of its topical significance today when Soviet diplomacy is again subordinated to the objectives of the cominform."

Russians Aid Underground

VIENNA — (UP) — Russian soldiers along the Austro-Hungarian border have taken over unofficially the operation of the Hungarian underground railway into Austria, refugees report.

The Russian soldiers, the refugees said, demand 10,000 forints per person to lead groups over the border, while the few Hungarian guides still daring to operate get 6,000 forints each.

The refugees said that despite the higher price, most travelers preferred the services of the Russians because there is less danger of interception by Hungarian frontier police.

FDR, Jr., Steps Into Rough Four-Way Battle For Congress

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Young Franklin D. Roosevelt has stepped into a tough four-way contest in his effort to go to congress from the New York congressional district long commanded by the late Sol Bloom.

Bloom represented the district on New York's upper west side from 1923 until his recent death. He was a pitchman and politician by instinct, and he built for himself a great political machine. Sol's machine is busted now like a dropped dollar watch.

The political rivalries loosed in the district by Bloom's death set up in broad outline what has happened to the Roosevelt New Deal-Democratic coalition since the death of FDR four years ago last week. Franklin, jr., was first in the field with announcement of his candidacy after Bloom's death.

Mayor William O'Dwyer, the biggest Democratic figure in New York state, endorsed young Roosevelt's candidacy better of it when the Tammany Democratic organization decided to buck the old block's chip.

Now there already are three candidates formally in the field. All represent political elements which whooped it up for the late FDR when the war was on and all left wingers voted pretty much alike, including the communists.

Franklin, jr, is the congressional nominee of the Liberal party, a fourth string political organization of New Dealers, Social Democrats and Independent left wingers. The Liberal party is distinguished for its firm opposition to communism.

Tammany has nominated Magistrate Benjamin Shalleck.

The communists and sympathizers with communism who put Kremlin foreign policy ahead of American interests, have nominated Dr. Annette T. Rubenstein in the name of the American Labor party.

The tradition of the district is strongly Democratic. Shalleck and his Deomcratic backers are depending almost exclusively on that tradition of Democratic representation to win in next month's by-election.

The Republicans have not yet selected their candidate, but they will be represented. The party has a firm hold on about 36,000 votes in the 20th district. Approximately 124,000 persons will be eligible to vote. That will leave 88,000 votes for which the other three candidates must scramble.

More Jobs Opening In City Area

OSES Places 148 During Past Month

The Mansfield office of the Ohio State Employment service placed 14 per cent more persons last month than it did the previous month, C. W. Handley, manager of the office, reported today.

In placing 148 persons in jobs last month, Handley said, employment apparently is on the up-grade.

"If this month continues at its present rate ,the office will show even a greater increase this month, probably with 180 people placed in new positions," Handley said.

The employment office's records show that approximately 40 to 50 people are newly employed each week.

Handley pointed out that of the nearly 2,100 persons seeking employment, more than 750 of them are veterans of World War II.

Announced today by Handley were several federal and private jobs open in Alaska. All of these jobs are on a contract basis of one year or more with transportation furnished.

Jobs open in the land of the Eskimos include elementary school teachers with a minimum salary of $3,122 per year, nurses starting at $3,300 and ranging to $4,250, including room and board, and survey instrument men paying $3,718 to $4,188 per year.

Highest paid job available in Alaska is for civil engineers who are qualified to build roads and small bridges. Salaries for the engineers begin at $4,659 and range up to $7,600 for experienced men.

Probe Number Racket Blast

XENIA — (INS) — Xenia police today sent fragments of a dynamite and nitroglycerin bomb picked from the blasted home of so-called "number king" Earl Artis on Easter, to the state bureau of identification at the London prison farm.

They are investigating the Sunday bombing of the Artis home. Artis and his wife and child, with a neighborhood boy, were sleeping in their home early Easter when a car roared by and the bomb blew off the front steps and punched a hole in the front wall.

Police said it was part of a numbers war on Artis. They attributed the explosion to an out-of-town gang.

Prune Roses For June Bloom

THIS ROSE BUSH NEEDS PRUNING. IT HAS WEAK GROWTH, DEAD TWIGS, AND TOO MANY BRANCHES
SAME BUSH PRUNNED BACK TO A FEW HEALTHY CANES

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Central Press Association

Although the various classes of roses require different pruning methods, there are some general rules that must be followed.

All tools used should be sharp enough to make clean cuts. Bark bruises are often the birthplace of disease. They can be avoided if pruning tools are kept in good working condition. The best of tools clumsily handled are worse than useless.

Nearly all roses are grafted on some strong-growing stock. Any suckers coming from below the union of stock and variety should be ruthlessly removed. If such suckers are not pruned out from time to time they will soon strangle the growth of the plant.

Hybrid tea roses left unpruned will produce more bloom but the flowers will be small and inferior to the quality possible when pruning is practiced.

The Radiance type, which is a vigorous grower, is usually cut back to at least half of the previous year's growth. If even better blooms and longer stems are desired then two-thirds of the previous year's growth can be removed, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Pruning concentrated the strength of the plant in a few eyes or buds with the result that each one will grow under pressure and put out more leaves, longer stems and bigger blooms.

One rule often overlooked is: Always prune to a bud pointing away from the center of the bush, since this tends to keep the center open, thus letting in more sun and air.

Cut away any dead, dying or diseased wood. Even though such treatment seems drastic, it always pays in the end with a better bush and better blooms.

Claim Four Out of Five OK Oleo Bill

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Backers of colored oleomargarine claimed today that four out of five voters in Ohio favor yellow oleo.

The association of voters of yellow margarine based its estimate on a poll in Hamilton county, which reported 15 out of 16 voters in Cincinnati, Norwood and Chevoit favored the Oleo bill approved by the Senate and now awaiting a place on the House calendar.

'Quickie' Divorce Hit

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The supreme court ruled Monday that "quickie" dicorces can be declared invalid when the divorced partner is not personally served with a notice of the divorce action.

The court, in a 5 to 4 decision, upheld a Connecticut court ruling which voided a Reno divorce obtained by Herbert N. Rice shortly before he died.

The Connecticut courts decided that Rice had remained a Connecticut citizen and never established bona fide residence in Nevada.

Rice got his divorce in Reno in July, 1944. A few days later he remarried. Five months later he died in Herlong, Cal., just across the Nevada border, where he was working in a war plant.

His first wife, Mrs. Lillian O. Rice of Woodbridge, Conn., to whom he was married for 23 years, brought suit in Connecticut to have herself declared the legal widow. The court ruled she was. The second wife, Hermione, appealed to the supreme court.

Brinkerhoff school, which led in attendance the first two months this year, dropped to third last month with a 93.68 per cent. The report covers the preiod beginning Feb. 28 and ended March 25.

The number of cases of truancy in the city went up from 67 on the supertendent's February report to 86 for March. Thirty-two of these cases were at Senior high while the two junior high schools reported 15 each.

Senior High also led in the number of tardy cases for the month, 593. John Simpson Junior high school was second with 183. These two schools have the largest enrollments in the city.

The present enrollment in the school system is 7,022 pupils. The report shows that 2,847 pupils were neither tardy nor absent during March.

Freed In Slaying

HAMILTON — (AP) — Judge P M. Boli placed Elbert Powell of Excello on probation for five years yesterday. Powell was convicted of manslaughter in the fatal stabbing of Albert Tackett, also of Excello, last Feb. 6.

A fine funeral service that meets requirements of all people regardless of their beliefs or belongings.
